

Career Goals Essay Example

When I was a child, stargazing was one of my hobbies: gazing over the infinity of darkness, the story behind every star, galaxy, nebula and the nothingness in between was shrouded in mystery, and I felt invincible because I thought I could uncover every mystery on my own. As I grew older, though, many events shaped my life, and my mind was gradually grounded in reality. However, I retained my sense of wonder and my burning curiosity, which ultimately led me to my future career goals.

When I was 19, I enrolled in the program of Bachelor's in Electrical Engineering at NUST. Although as you have probably surmised from my introduction, I was always interested in Astrophysics. However, no university in Pakistan offered a degree in Astrophysics and due to financial constraints, going abroad was never an option. Nevertheless, opting for Electrical Engineering had its merits, and I hoped to rediscover my passion.

Then tragedy struck: during my first semester, I got into a horrifying car accident. I remember opening my eyes in a hospital bed. I was told that I might never walk again, but fortunately, through several physical therapy sessions, I regained motor function in my lower limbs.

Fast forward to my penultimate semester: I started working on my Final Year Project. It was then that I got introduced to Artificial intelligence that re-ignited my curiosity in physics. Recently many breakthroughs had been made in this field owing to a technique called Deep Learning. Deep Learning, unlike conventional methods of problem, would devise its own model that best fits the information and parameters you feed the computer. Its applications were truly novel such as AV or Autonomous Vehicles. That is where my love-affair with Deep Learning began.

An autonomous vehicle requires no human input or driver, ideally, after selecting your destination, the computer would drive your car, practically on auto-pilot. The benefit of AV is reduced accidents and a safer environment for all, and exactly why it had grabbed my attention. However, this application requires advanced knowledge of AI and Deep Learning. Therefore, my short-term goals are to achieve mastery in this field by getting into this well-reputed and prestigious university. The faculty and facilities available here are unmatched, and I would feel the luckiest if I got into my dream university. My long-term goal, on the other hand, is to devise an autonomous vehicle model so robust and fool-proof that all new vehicles have this feature built-in. It would mean that not only is my model safe and surpassing state-of-the-art results, but it is also economical and affordable in even a developing country such as Pakistan.

The benefit to society is immeasurable by saving millions of lives each year due to motor accidents. In ten years, I see myself working with the most excellent companies like Tesla and Google to advance the research in AV and to hopefully integrate the system with every new vehicle on the planet to ensure a safe environment of an unprecedented degree.
