Empire from the Margins Martin Jacobs, 2025-07-15 The writings of three early modern Jewish historians highlight the divided allegiances of a Jewish diaspora living in and between the Spanish and Ottoman empires In 1492 the year that marked the start of Spain's transatlantic expansion the Spanish monarchs expelled their Jewish subjects and triggered a mass Jewish migration to the lands of the Ottoman empire But while the rise of these rival empires had tremendous impact on the Jewish population's geography the historical accounts of contemporary Jews have remained peripheral to the study of early modern imperialism In Empire from the Margins Martin Jacobs seeks to understand how the history of empires appears through the lens of marginalized communities and to explore how Jews responded to Spanish and Ottoman imperial expansion He approaches this history through the Hebrew chronicles of three sixteenth and seventeenth century Jewish authors Elijah Capsali of Crete Joseph ha Kohen of Genoa and Joseph Sambari of Cairo all lived in early modern hubs with global connections and in unusual detail for premodern Jewish historians they described how the Spanish and Ottoman empires redrew the political cultural and religious map of the Mediterranean region while simultaneously transforming the transatlantic world As Jews these writers belonged to an ethno religious minority within the Mediterranean basin where the Spanish and Ottoman empires were centered and from here they expressed marginalized views on the Spanish and Ottoman regimes At the same time these Jewish authors belonged to Jewish networks that transcended imperial boundaries and they voiced conflicting loyalties between different authorities and cultures And Jacobs shows that in writing about the Spanish and Ottoman expansion these authors also grappled with the Jews precarious position in their host societies and their own multilayered identities Their shifting positionalities illuminate the divided allegiances of a Jewish diaspora living in and between competing empires

Creating Environmental and Occupational Health Derek R. Smith, 2011-06-27 Occupational hazards have plagued human civilisation since time immemorial and much of the progress in making workplaces safer is reflected by and recorded in the academic periodicals of environmental and occupational health As a result careful examination of these journals provides an interesting record of the field itself as well as documenting the concerns and issues deemed important by editorial boards and contributors over time Derek Smith has established himself as a pioneer in analyzing the literature of environmental and occupational health Thanks to his fine work we may use this resource to understand both the history of EOH for its own sake and the dynamics of publishing in one medium sized but largely self contained scientific field Tee L Guidotti The Queen's English Henry Alford,1888 Handbook of Research on Special Economic Zones as Regional Development Enablers Figueiredo, Paulo Guilherme,Leandro, Francisco José,Li, Yichao,2021-10-15 Special economic zones SEZs are important doorways for countries to attract foreign investment and promote trade A strong correlation between the creation of SEZs and economic development indicators has also been identified in previous studies at the municipal level in China Thus the fundamental question that needs to be explored is to what extent SEZs can play the role of development enablers in different regions development states and institutional settings The Handbook of Research on Special Economic Zones as Regional Development Enablers discusses the diverse and international track records in the implementation of SEZs the interplay of SEZ models and local institutional infrastructure and stakeholders and the SEZ models that can best fit certain development states and or settings Covering topics such as the Belt and Road Initiative local and national economies and regional integration this book is essential for government officials development officers scholars students researchers entrepreneurs public decision makers aid agencies company executives investors and academicians Multinational Enterprises and the Law Peter Muchlinski,2021 Multinational Enterprises and the Law is the only comprehensive contemporary and interdisciplinary account of the techniques used to regulate multinational enterprises MNEs at the national regional and multilateral levels In addition it considers the effects of corporate self regulation and the impact of civil society and community groups upon the development of the legal order in this area The book has been thoroughly revised and updated for this third edition making it a definitive reference work for students researchers and practitioners of international economic law business corporate and commercial law development studies and international politics Split into four parts the book first deals with the conceptual basis for MNE regulation It explains the growth of MNEs their business and legal forms and the relationship between them and the effects of a globalized economy and society now increasingly challenged by recently revived nationalist economic policies upon the evolution of regulatory agendas in the field In addition the limits of national and regional jurisdiction over MNE activities are considered a question that arises throughout the specialized areas of regulation covered in the remainder of the book Part II covers the main areas of economic regulation including controls over and the liberalization of entry and establishment tax company and competition law and the impact of intellectual property rights on technology diffusion and transfer A specialized chapter on the regulation of multinational banks in the wake of the global financial crisis is new to this edition Part III introduces the social dimension of MNE regulation covering labour rights human rights and environmental issues Finally Part IV deals with the contribution of international investment law to MNE regulation and to the control of investment risks covering the main provisions found in
