Study Guide for Psychology Don H. Hockenbury,2009-01-23 Popular Photography - ND ,1950-05

Synaesthesia Michael Banissy, Roi Cohen Kadosh, Clare Jonas, 2015-10-07 Synaesthesia is a rare experience in which one property of a stimulus evokes a secondary experience that is not typically associated with the first e.g. hearing words can evoke tastes. In recent years a number of studies have highlighted the authenticity of synaesthesia and attempted to use the experience to inform us about typical processes in perception and cognition. This Research Topic brings together research on synaesthesia and typical cross-modal interactions to discuss the mechanisms of synaesthesia and what it can tell us about typical perceptual processes. Topics include but are not limited to the neurocognitive mechanisms that give rise to synaesthesia, the extent to which synaesthesia does not share commonalities with typical cross-modal correspondences, broader cognitive and perceptual consequences that are linked to synaesthesia, and perspectives on the origins defining characteristics of synaesthesia.

Dimensions of Register Variation Douglas Biber, 1995-08-31 Douglas Biber's new book extends and refines the research and methodology reported in his groundbreaking Variation Across Speech and Writing (CUP, 1988). In Dimensions of Register Variation he gives a linguistic analysis of register in four widely differing languages: English, Nukulaelae, Tuvaluan, Korean, and Somali. Using the multi-dimensional analytical framework employed in his earlier work, Biber carries out a principled comparison of both synchronic and diachronic patterns of variation across the four languages. Striking similarities as well as differences emerge, allowing Biber to predict for the first time cross-linguistic universals of register variation. This major new work will provide the foundation for the further investigation of cross-linguistic universals governing the pattern of discourse variation across registers and will be of wide interest to any scholar interested in style, register, and literacy.
