BIOL 112 - Renal Physiology & Urinalysis Lab Worksheet

The main functions of the kidneys include:

- Maintain blood volume, ensuring blood pressure is stable
- Acid-base regulation
- Electrolyte balance
- Removal of wastes, toxins

The byproduct of urine is the result of the above renal functions. Urine is a solution of water, salts and nitrogenous wastes produced when the blood is filtered through a highly complex filtering mechanism that regulates all physiological functions of the body. Urinalysis can reveal abnormalities in kidney function. For example, a component of the specific gravity (SG) volume reflects the weight of solutes and electrolytes, water in the blood and other body fluid concentrations. Analyzing the composition of urine is an extremely useful technique for assessing physiological physiology.

Activity 1: Fundamentals of Urinalysis

Table 1 summarizes the results of a standard dipstick urinalysis. Compare the patient's measured values with the clinical data reference values for urinalysis.
