The Mexican War—Was It in the National Interest?

Part A.

Use the following documents as a resource in completing the chart that follows on the arguments for and against American expansion to the Pacific, even at the expense of war with Mexico, in the 1840s.

Document A

But I am in danger of running into unnecessary details, which my debility will not enable me to close. The question is full of interest, also, as it affects our domestic relations and as it may bear upon those of Mexico to us. I will not undertake to follow it out to its consequences in those respects, though I must say that, in all aspects, the annexation of Texas to the United States promises to enlarge the circle of free institutions, and is essential to the United States, particularly as lessening the probabilities of future collision with foreign powers, and giving them greater efficiency in spreading the blessings of peace.

Andrew Jackson in a letter to Cong. Aaron V. Brown of Tennessee.

February 12, 1843

Document B

John L. O'Sullivan, the influential Democratic editor who gave the movement its name, wrote in 1845 that the American claim to new territory . . . is by the right of our manifest destiny to overspread and to possess the whole of the continent which Providence has given us for the development of the great experiment of liberty and federative self government entrusted to us. It is a right such as that of the tree to the space of air and earth suitable for the full expansion of its principle and destiny of growth.

Richard N. Current et al., A Survey of American History, Vol. 1, 6th ed. (New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1963), 373.

Document C

"We love to indulge in thoughts of the future extent and power of this Republic—because with its increase is the increase of human happiness and liberty. . . . What has miserable, inefficient Mexico—with her superstition, her burlesque upon freedom, her actual tyranny by the few over the many—what has she to do with the great mission of peopling the New World with a noble race? Be it ours, to achieve that mission! Be it ours to roll down all of the upstart leaven of old despotism, that comes our way!"

Walt Whitman, Editorial, Brooklyn Daily Eagle, July 7, 1846

For immigrants making the transoceanic journey from Europe or Asia to North America the experience of a new country began when they disembarked In Canada the federal government built a network of buildings that provided newcomers with shelter services and state support Immigration sheds such as Pier 21 in Halifax where ocean liners would dock and global migrants arrived and were processed had many counterparts across the country new arrivals were accommodated or incarcerated at reception halls quarantine stations and immigrant detention hospitals For the Temporary Accommodation of Settlers reconstructs the experiences of people in these spaces both immigrants and government agents to pose a question at the heart of architectural thinking how is meaning produced in the built environments that we encounter David Monteyne interprets official governmental intentions and policy goals embodied by the architecture of immigration but foregrounds the unofficial informal practices of people who negotiated these spaces to satisfy basic needs ensure the safety of their families learn about land and job opportunities and ultimately arrive at their destinations The extent of this Canadian network which peaked in the early twentieth century at over sixty different sites and the range of building types that comprised it are unique among immigrant receiving nations in this period In our era of pandemic quarantine and migrant detention facilities For the Temporary Accommodation of Settlers offers new ways of seeing and thinking about the historical processes of immigration challenging readers to consider government architecture and the experience of migrants across global networks      The Christian Advocate ,1900
