Abstract: This research is a qualitative study examining and understanding the experiences of students with disabilities in the workplace. The study was conducted in a university setting and involved 10 participants. The findings suggest that students with disabilities face a variety of challenges in the workplace, including discrimination, lack of accommodations, and limited opportunities for advancement. The study also identified several strategies that students with disabilities use to overcome these challenges, such as seeking out mentors and using assistive technology. The results of this study have implications for the development of workplace policies and practices that are more inclusive and supportive of students with disabilities.
