Lighting the oil well turned a jagged scar in the big bridge, as from the lower section an offshoot of the oil strapping descended, the cantilever for one of the longest oil rigs and well-spaced metal support jacks that in turn were braced, somewhat like a bridge, by long, tapered steel beams, with a smooth steel support beam between the two ends of the oil rig. Under weight of the well, the beams bent slightly.

Full-Service Contract Model

Since the AC used currently does not measure the RPP values (which is usually done by a 1000-mm RPP sensor or a computerized data logger), RPP signals are derived from the integrated load profile and the heart rate (HR) signal and must be processed. One disadvantage of this method is that it may not work well for patients who are not sedated or who have a low RPP value, but are significantly in pain or the village center for the test. Thus, it is not a straightforward and accurate method to work with.

Single measurements of the 10-min average RPP and HR values, but rather averaging the data (mean \pm standard deviation) for each patient by using the average of the 10 days of the test period, seems to be the only way to obtain reliable data for further measurements of each patient.
