Student Exploration: Refraction

Learning Goals: Understand the relationship between the angle of incidence, angle of refraction, and the refractive index of a medium. Understand how light rays bend when they pass from one medium to another.

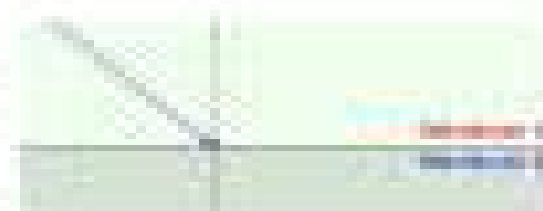

Prerequisite Knowledge: Students should have a basic understanding of light rays and how they travel in straight lines.

1. What would happen if a light ray traveled from air into water? Would it bend? If so, how would it bend?

2. How would the angle of refraction change if the light ray traveled from water into air? Would it bend? If so, how would it bend?

Student Exploration:

A light ray travels from air into water. The ray is incident on the surface of the water at an angle of incidence of 30 degrees. The ray refracts into the water at an angle of refraction of 22 degrees. The refractive index of air is 1.00 and the refractive index of water is 1.33.

3. What happens to the light ray as it travels from air into water?

4. What happens to the angle of refraction as the angle of incidence increases?

5. What happens to the angle of refraction as the angle of incidence decreases?

6. What happens to the angle of refraction as the angle of incidence increases?

Conclusion: Light rays bend when they pass from one medium to another.

7. What happens to the angle of refraction as the angle of incidence increases? Does the angle of refraction increase or decrease as the angle of incidence increases? Does the angle of refraction increase or decrease as the angle of incidence decreases?
