who want to make a difference What if you could make a real lasting difference to your community and change the lives of thousands The answer is to become an independent director ID Independent directors play a vital role in governing health services charities sporting bodies and educational establishments and can be especially effective in times of great change and uncertainty Not only do they play a crucial role in steering and developing strategy and managing risk they are also the key to ensuring accountability They are the people who ensure these organisations properly serve all of their stakeholders be it employees customers or the wider society They are the real long term custodians of organisations Now more than ever these organisations are crying out for diverse committed and engaged independent directors The demand for impartial input is greater than ever before There is no better time to step up and make a difference Gerry Brown s Making a Difference is the essential guide to becoming an ID what to expect in that position and what you can achieve once you are one This book will inspire you to put yourself forward take a seat at the table and get involved in organisational change Democratising independent directorship is a powerful way to help transform policies from within and change things for the better

Critical Perspectives on Further Education and Training Camilla Fitzsimons, Jerry O'Neill, 2024-03-12 This book responds to and informs the rapid growth in adult community and further education in Ireland and beyond Across 11 chapters academic and practitioner insights are explored There are chapters that focus on policy trends across the topics some of which focus on current trends in policy and practice and some of which focus more deliberately on everyday practice The book opens with perspectives from some further education students who comment on some of the themes raised These lead into an introduction which describes the landscape of a complex heterogeneous FET sector and outlines what the authors mean by critical perspectives on adult community and further education in Ireland This is followed by the philosophically oriented chapter one written by Camilla Fitzsimons that provides practical examples of possibilities for engaged pedagogy amidst curricula that on the surface appear far removed from the dimensions of power and privilege the book lays bare In chapter two experienced further and higher education practitioner Sarah Coss offers a practical and thought provoking account of the challenges of working creatively and dialogically with FE curricula whilst at the same time attending to the many bureaucratised demands of accreditation and quality assurance frameworks Chapter three written by Lilian Nwanze builds a case for the importance of discussions about racism and white privilege in FE and proposes concrete actions to embody an anti racist approach the last of which is an emphasis on love In chapter four Jane O Kelly presents a reflexive exploration of neurodiversity in adults and prompts us to consider whether their needs are recognised and accommodated in further education and training settings In chapter five Br d Connolly explores ways in which a feminist egalitarian groupwork stance can draw from social movements adult and community education to create an FE pedagogy that challenges the status quo of education as a social institution In chapter six Eilish Dillon reflects on why a critical approach to global citizenship education GCE is important and introduces some debates about the meaning and implementation of GCE In chapter seven

Jerry O'Neill's partially poetic chapter demonstrates a creative and critical approach to individual and group reflexive practices which he argues is core not just to the ongoing professional development of all FET practitioners and the sector itself but can also be seen as form of practitioner based creative research in itself. Leo Casey follows in chapter eight by exploring some of the overlooked connections between adult learning and digital literacy and argues for a policy balance between models of human capital and the interests of big technology and how teaching and learning for Digital World Literacy can value lifelong learning. In chapter nine primary research by Eve Cobain, Suzanne Kyle and Susan Cullinane link community education to social movement theory and Ireland's community development anti poverty movement of the 1980s and 1990s. They analyse the experiences of practitioners as they navigate the very different neoliberal oriented contemporary landscape. In chapter ten Brendan Kavanagh, Francesca Lorenzi and Elaine Macdonald explore the process of teacher identity and transformation of what they term second career teachers within further education colleges. In chapter eleven Camilla and Jerry highlight the very real challenges facing educators working in a field that is characterised by high levels of precarity and argue that realising a high quality critical and sustainable distinct professional pathway for emerging educators must become a policy priority for any government that is serious about recognising the value and potential of the FET sector. In the methodological spirit of adult education this contribution closes with a group dialogue between authors from across these chapters as we look forward to the work to be done and consider our hopes for the future of FET.

Politics of Quality Improvement in English Further Education Zahid Naz, 2023-01-12. This book offers a rich account of how quality improvement agendas informed by neoliberalism create contradictory and complex contexts in which teachers produce different types of practices for specific purposes. Drawing on Michel Foucault's analytical tools archaeology and genealogy this book weaves together findings from classroom observations, field notes and interviews to explore the dichotomies between practices focussing on day to day pedagogies and practices concerned with performance management and accountability initiatives. By attending to a Foucauldian conception of power and counter conduct it explores new means of defining quality in teaching spaces. After considering existing quality assurance judgements the book illuminates the significance of moving slightly away from an institutionalised enterprise culture and loosening relations with reductionist approaches as a starting point. While doing so it reworks the idea of quality by presenting other ways of looking at the complex character of pedagogical realities with new insights into an emergentist and process oriented conception of teaching practices. The book argues that we need to unlearn our existing knowledge of quality that overlooks contextual constraints and opportunities enmeshed in teaching practices. It questions the assumptions that the existing methods of observation are capable of quantifying the quality of education in a classroom or in a college in toto. By introducing the idea of documentisation the book breaks new theoretical ground to show that this so called system of robust accountabilities is not as self evident as we believe and why we must rethink quality by unthinking our current common sense. Written for researchers in educational studies practising teachers and policy makers this book combines profound insights from theory and contemporary teaching practices with clear guidelines as to how educational policy making should be approached
