NASPA 2010 Decisions Matter provides a practical set of strategies to help graduate students and new professionals cultivate proficiency in the professional competency areas while making decisions about multifaceted higher education problems. Effective decision making is an essential skill for successful student affairs practice. By learning and applying the decision making framework and professional competencies to case studies and real world problems emerging student affairs professionals can begin their journey toward developing a consistent comprehensive and thoughtful process for decision making.

Administrators Solving the Problems of Practice Wayne K. Hoy, Clemens John Tarter, 2008. Tested in hundreds of classrooms this text with cases is a student favorite that brings eight classical models of decision making to life creating useful tools in developing strategies to solve real life problems. This book describes eight different models of decision making compares the models and illustrates how to use each model with real cases from schools. The frameworks include classical administrative incremental mixes scanning political and garbage can models as well as two models of shared decision making. After illustrating the use of these decision making models to analyze and develop solution strategies students have the opportunity to explore about fifty actual cases to build their own analyses and solution strategies.

Decision-Making for Schools and Colleges Dean F. Juniper, 2014-05-18

Decision Making for Schools and Colleges contains activities and exercises designed to present decision making principles to pupils and college students and guide them in their life choices. This book is divided into 16 units that cover the principles limitations and objectives of various decision making programs. The opening units of this book provide the participants of the decision making program the means to discriminate between important and unimportant decisions and a glimpse of decision making in a wider than vocational frame. These topics are followed by the interrelationship between the aims interests and value of the program. The subsequent units present certain aspects of information and decision theories and their applications to the construction of Expectancy Tables. These units also provide simulated experiences that may or may not be directly applicable to participants eventual job choices. This book also deals with the value of consistent yardsticks for testing information of the written kind and checklist instruments of this kind in vocational and personal decision making. Other units present the methods of judging a range of alternative courses of action based on their relation to the values and interests of the person who has to take a decision between them. Another unit focuses on various stages of contingency planning together with their interconnections and the limits of the strategy. Some important and negligible consequences of decisions are tackled based on experiments personal histories and structured discussions. The concluding units deal with the structure of a considered decision in terms of the aim information and decision.
