

INTRODUCTION

Cells are the basic, fundamental unit of life. So, if we were to break apart an organism to the cellular level, the smallest independent component that we would find would be the cell.

Cells are the fundamental unit of life. They range in size from 0.0001 mm to nearly 150 mm across.

CELL DEFINATION

“A cell is defined as the smallest, basic unit of life that is responsible for all of life’s processes.”

Cells are the structural, functional, and biological units of all living beings. A cell can replicate itself independently. Hence, they are known as the building blocks of life.

Each cell contains a fluid called the cytoplasm, which is enclosed by a membrane. Also present in the cytoplasm are several biomolecules like proteins, nucleic acids and lipids. Moreover, cellular structures called cell organelles are suspended in the cytoplasm.

.Robert Hooke was the first Biologist who discovered cells.

All organisms are made up of cells. They may be made up of a single cell (unicellular), or many cells (multicellular). Mycoplasmas are the smallest known cells. Cells are the building blocks of all living beings. They provide structure to the body and convert the nutrients taken from the food into energy.

Cellular Structure and Function A. Malcolm Campbell, Christopher J. Paradise, 2016 All organisms are composed of cells but what is the definition of a cell Can size shape or function be used to distinguish cells from non living biological systems such as a virus Whatever the definition of a cell is it can probably be contradicted by cells with unusual characteristics For example there are cells as long as a giraffe's neck while others are smaller than a mitochondrion Sometimes it is hard to know the difference between an animal and a plant cell Despite their diversity of shapes and sizes cells are small most of the time Why has natural selection favored small cells Would it be possible for big organisms to have big cells It would seem safe to say viruses are small except some are quite large In the end this book will provide evidence that cells are difficult to characterize and define even though they are the foundation of all living things
