BIM Handbook Charles M. Eastman, 2011-04-19 The BIM Handbook presents the technology and processes behind BIM and how architects, engineers, contractors, and sub-contractors, construction and facility owners, AECO can take advantage of the new technology and work process. Unlike CAD, BIM is a major paradigm shift in the documentation, work processes, and exchange of project information. It facilitates collaboration and further automation in both design and construction. AEC professionals need a handbook to guide them through the various BIM technologies and related processes. The collaborative nature of BIM requires professionals to view BIM from various industry perspectives and understand how BIM supports multiple project participants. The BIM Handbook reviews BIM processes and tools from multiple perspectives: the owner, architects, and engineers, contractors, subcontractors, and fabricators.

High Performance and Optimum Design of Structures and Materials W. P. De Wilde,S. Hernández,C. A. Brebbia,2014-06-09 The use of novel materials and new structural concepts nowadays is not restricted to highly technical areas like aerospace aeronautical applications or the automotive industry but affects all engineering fields including those such as civil engineering and architecture Addressing issues involving advanced types of structures particularly those based on new concepts or new materials and their system design contributions highlight the latest developments in design optimisation manufacturing and experimentation Also included are contributions on new software numerical methods and different optimisation techniques Optimisation problems of interest involve those related to size shape and topology of structures and materials Most high performance structures require the development of a generation of new materials which can more easily resist a range of external stimuli or react in a non conventional manner Particular emphasis is placed on intelligent structures and materials as well as the application of computational methods for their modelling control and management Optimisation techniques have much to offer to those involved in the design of new industrial products The formulation of optimum design has evolved from the time it was purely an academic topic able now to satisfy the requirements of real life prototypes The development of new algorithms and the appearance of powerful commercial computer codes with easy to use graphical interfaces have created a fertile field for the incorporation of optimisation in the design process in all engineering disciplines This proceedings volume is the first from a new edition of the High Performance Design of Structures and Materials and the Optimum Design of Structures conferences which follows the success of a number of meetings that originated in 1989 Topics covered include Composite materials Material characterisation Experiments and numerical analysis Steel structures High performance concretes Natural fibre composites Transformable structures Lightweight structures Timber structures Environmentally friendly and sustainable structures Emerging structural applications Optimisation in civil engineering Evolutionary methods in optimisation Shape and topology optimisation Aerospace structures Structural optimisation Biomechanics application Material optimisation Life
