It was a place where she could think things more clearly, and she knows that she had never thought of herself as the expert that she starts to live a double life where during day she was filled with tasks and has the responsibility of being a Kumbungu Child, and at night she could escape and be herself, she can be herself without having anyone say her, she has freedom and all the time in the world.

I've also spent years and months in my room, to cultivate it into a place where I feel comfortable. Having a space dedicated to rest, relaxation, and a type of freedom is extremely important to us young people, and has been for centuries as this was taken from the Greeks.

All three of these examples further the idea that having just one space on either side is small, is important and strong.
