

Stalin's Five-Year Plan

Joseph Stalin, the leader of the Soviet Union from the mid-1920s until his death in 1953, implemented a series of ambitious economic initiatives known as the Five-Year Plans. These plans were designed to transform the Soviet Union from a largely agrarian society into a formidable industrial power. The first Five-Year Plan began in 1928 and ended in 1932, followed by several others.

Photography's great success gives the impression that the major questions that have haunted the medium are now resolved On the contrary the most important questions about photography are just beginning to be asked These fourteen essays with over 200 illustrations critically examine prevailing beliefs about the medium and suggest new ways to explain the history of photography They are organized around the questions What are the social consequences of aesthetic practice How does photography construct sexual difference How is photography used to promote class and national interests What are the politics of photographic truth The Contest of Meaning summarizes the challenges to traditional photographic history that have developed in the last decade out of a consciously political critique of photographic production Contributions by a wide
