Tools for State and Local Fiscal Management Hathaway, Alex, Martinez-Vazquez, Jorge, Thayer, Chris, 2021-12-14 Governments have always endured economic woes but the increasing severity of such challenges from the Great Recession starting in 2008 to the unprecedented impact of the COVID 19 pandemic highlights the need for better developed fiscal analysis capacity in governments of all sizes using the most practical yet robust techniques available This volume presents an array of real world analytical approaches in a variety of service areas at the core of state and local government New Perspectives on State Government Fiscal Challenges John Merrifield, Barry W. Poulson, 2023-07-03 In this book on new fiscal approaches nineteen experts examine topics ranging from constitutional reform and debt fatigue to fiscal rules and zero based budgeting Together these contributions inform a multifaceted nuanced argument for the need to formalize spending restraint and redefine state debt to include unfunded liabilities Scholars will find the book useful as a reference tool explaining how rules based fiscal policy is used to address debt fatigue and unsustainable spending growth Legislators and practitioners will find the book useful as a reference source in designing and simulating second generation fiscal rules and educators will find the book helpful for its close analysis of policies in representative states such as Illinois New York New Jersey Nebraska and California Green Superpowers Andrea Prontera, 2024-10-31 Fossil fuels have been key to major powers foreign policies for a long time In the context of the current global energy transition renewables and low carbon technologies are emerging as elements that can have a similarly important impact on twenty first century world politics Green Superpowers China the European Union and the United States in the Global Energy Transition offers an in depth comparative analysis of the green foreign energy policies and green power strategies of the three main international actors in this transformative process China the European Union and the United States These green superpowers alone account for about half of global carbon dioxide emissions which is the primary driver of climate change and they are frontrunners in the global race for promoting and deploying renewables and innovative low carbon technologies To analyse this changing landscape Prontera combines insights from international political economy comparative public policy international relations and energy policy scholarship The book develops an original framework for mapping and studying the green foreign energy policies and green power strategies of major international actors and applies this framework to shed light on the recent efforts of China the European Union and the US In doing so it illustrates the links between the domestic green approaches that these green superpowers are promoting and their external actions regarding renewables and low carbon technologies whilst drawing attention to the limits and potential of green power strategies in the transition away from fossil fuels and the struggles to address a mounting climate crisis

Women's Agency and the State in Contemporary Brunei Norainie Ahmad, Ooi Keat Gin, 2025-09-19

This pioneering book presents a comprehensive overview of the role of women in Brunei's economy, society and public domain from the historical and contemporary perspective. Making an important contribution to the study of women in Asia by focusing on Brunei, a country with many distinctive features including governance by an Islamic sultan, guidance by a national philosophy of Malay Islamic Monarchy and a unique intermingling of Malay and Chinese traditions and practices. Featuring contributions by Brunei women academics based in local tertiary institutions, it portrays the lives of women in Brunei from their own perspective. It covers women's agency through several lenses including the growing digital activism on issues of sexual harassment, women's empowerment, women entrepreneurship, agency in Chinese Bruneians' contemporary literary narratives and the recent role of women in Islamic development in Brunei. Some of the challenges and concerns raised by the authors might have policy implications. Bringing detailed and insightful scholarship on issues and themes of local concerns with a Brunei perspective, this book will appeal to students and scholars of Women's studies, Asian studies, Southeast Asian studies and Islamic Studies.

Unreconciled Arthur N. Dunning, 2021-06-01 How do well-meaning people help a community move beyond its past when confronted by those who hold ingrained stereotypes, profit from maintaining the status quo or are filled with antipathy toward others? This book tells the story of how a Black university president tried to do just that when he led the first non-court-ordered merger of an historically Black university with an historically white two-year college in Albany, Georgia. Arthur N. Dunning came of age in the Black Belt of Alabama during the Jim Crow era. Among many pivotal experiences, he was part of a group of student athletes who helped to integrate Bear Bryant's University of Alabama football team in 1967. The values instilled in him by his family and those in his close-knit community, together with life experiences through education and from living, working and traveling abroad over more than forty years as an educator, shaped his approach to leading Albany State University, an HBCU, through its 2016 merger with all-white Darton State College. The community's reaction to the merger proved to be an extreme example of what our nation is experiencing today. The perceived threat of embracing change while racially integrating two institutions brought out painful stereotypes, racial orthodoxy, tribalism, suspicion and conspiracy theories. It peeled away a veneer of racial harmony and exposed unhealthy patterns of behavior and entrenched beliefs held by community members of both races. Dunning shares here the hard but valuable leadership lessons learned when his race and his personal southern history intersected with a university and city that were abruptly forced to acknowledge their own history and were challenged to envision a different future.

The Political Economy of State Intervention Gavin Poynter, 2020-11-25 Both the exponents and critics of neoliberalism assert the dominance of market forces in western nations. The Political Economy of State Intervention calls this into question. Through a re-examination of state intervention in the USA and Britain over the course of the long depression, 1970 to date, this book argues that the state has performed an increasingly significant role in conserving capital, propping up an economic and social order that has lost its productive dynamism. The specific forms of capital's dependency on the state may vary, however, the underlying weaknesses of mature western economies have prompted new forms of state intervention narrowly aimed at conserving capital especially in the wake of the financial crisis The chapters consider factors which are usually posited as explanations for the long depression such as oil price shocks domestic conditions and technological innovation The work argues that the consensus view of neoliberalism has served to underplay the significance of the state's role in failing to lift this long depression in several ways it has lent a greater ideological coherence to the policies pursued by successive governments than they deserve the state has been less subordinate to the market than is usually claimed and more often its maker and there has been a significant growth in jobs located in the private sector that are funded by public money The cumulative effect of this is a narrowing of the state's purpose to conserving capital a role which has contributed to its loss of authority as an institution that claims to represent society as a whole It is theorised that this in turn has led to the insecurities of the existing political order and the rise of populism This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of political economy public policy political theory economics and sociology

In Defense of Public Debt Barry Eichengreen, Asmaa El-Ganainy, Rui Esteves, Kris James Mitchener, 2021-08-11 A dive into the origins management and uses and misuses of sovereign debt through the ages Public debts have exploded to levels unprecedented in modern history as governments responded to the Covid 19 pandemic and ensuing economic crisis Their dramatic rise has prompted apocalyptic warnings about the dangers of heavy debts about the drag they will place on economic growth and the burden they represent for future generations In Defense of Public Debt offers a sharp rejoinder to this view marshaling the entire history of state issued public debt to demonstrate its usefulness Authors Barry Eichengreen

Asmaa El Ganainy Rui Esteves and Kris James Mitchener argue that the ability of governments to issue debt has played a critical role in addressing emergencies from wars and pandemics to economic and financial crises as well as in funding essential public goods and services such as transportation education and healthcare In these ways the capacity to issue debt has been integral to state building and state survival Transactions in public debt securities have also contributed to the development of private financial markets and through this channel to modern economic growth None of this is to deny that debt problems debt crises and debt defaults occur But these dramatic events which attract much attention are not the entire story In Defense of Public Debt redresses the balance The authors develop their arguments historically recounting two millennia of public debt experience They deploy a comprehensive database to identify the factors behind rising public debts and the circumstances under which high debts are successfully stabilized and brought down Finally they bring the story up to date describing the role of public debt in managing the Covid 19 pandemic and recession suggesting a way forward once governments now more heavily indebted than before finally emerge from the crisis

Reproductive Ethics II Lisa Campo-Engelstein, Paul Burcher, 2018-08-20 This book is the second collection of essays on reproductive ethics from Drs Campo Engelstein and Burcher This volume is unique in that it is both timely and includes several essays on new technologies while also being a comprehensive review of most of the major questions in the field from racial disparities in reproductive healthcare to gene editing and the possibility of the creation of a transhuman species The scholars writing these essays are pre eminent in their fields and their backgrounds are quite varied including philosophers anthropologists physicians and professors of law Reproductive ethics remains an underdeveloped area of bioethics despite the recent technological breakthroughs that carry both great promise and potential threats Building on the first volume of work from a conference held just over one year ago this new collection of essays from a conference held April 2017 continues this discussion as well as provides ethical insights and reviews of these emerging technologies The ethical questions swirling around human reproduction are both old and new but the conference presentations and the essays derived from them focus on new ways of appreciating old arguments such as the ethics of abortion as well as new ways of seeing new technologies such as CRISPR and mitochondrial transfer
