10.3b ... and withdraw it from the bulkhead

10.4 Slide the pollen filter out from the bulkhead

- 6 Wipe clean the inside of the housing and fit the pollen filter element, making sure that it is correctly seated.
- 7 Refit the pollen filter cover.
- 8 Refit the sound insulation trim, secure it in place with the plastic rivets and close the bonnet.

11 Brake pad wear and disc check

1 The work described in this Section should be carried out at the specified intervals, or whenever a defect is suspected in the braking system. Any of the following symptoms could indicate a potential brake system defect:

- a) The vehicle pulls to one side when the brake pedal is depressed.
- b) The brakes make squealing, scraping or dragging noises when applied.

11.3 Checking brake pad thickness through alloy wheels

For a quick check, the thickness of the friction material on each brake pad can be measured through the aperture in the caliper body.

less than the recommended minimum thickness given in the Specifications (see Haynes hint). Bear in mind that the lining material is normally bonded to a metal backing plate. To differentiate between the metal and the lining material it is helpful to turn the disc slowly at first – the edge of the disc can then be identified, with the lining material on each pad either side of it, and the backing plates behind.

5 If it is difficult to determine the exact thickness of the pad linings, or if you are at all concerned about the condition of the pads, then remove them from the calipers for further inspection (refer to Chapter 9, Section 4).

6 Check the other caliper in the same way.

7 If any one of the brake pads has worn down to, or below, the specified limit, all four pads at that end of the car must be renewed as a set (see illustration). If the pads on one side are significantly more worn than the other, this may indicate that the caliper pistons have partially seized – refer to the brake pad renewal procedure in Chapter 9, Section 4, and push the pistons back into the caliper to free them.

8 Measure the thickness of the discs with a micrometer, if available, to make sure that they still have service life remaining. Do not be fooled by the lip of rust which often forms on the outer edge of the disc, which may make the disc appear thicker than it really is – scrape off the loose rust if necessary, without scoring the disc friction (shiny) surface.

9 If any disc is thinner than the specified minimum thickness, renew both (refer to Chapter 9, Section 6).

11.7 Check the thickness of the brake pad friction material
