In 2002, Jeff R. Goodman, chief executive officer (CEO) of PFM Devices, Inc. (PFM Devices) launched his final strategic initiative before his upcoming retirement. PFM Devices, a privately held business, launched 10 years earlier with venture capital investments, had proved to be a successful investment. Goodman's past experience in the medical industry, along with his marketing successes, was instrumental in gaining market share in a competitive global market for the artificial cartilage industry. Although his market share in the United States had steady growth over the last two years, Goodman had trouble extending his product on a global scale. Cultural differences and already established companies in both the European and Asian markets added to the inability to expand outside of the United States.

A NEW OBJECTIVE, A NEW LEADER

Goodman thought the best way to expand globally was to acquire competing companies already established in areas of growth and market stability. After meeting with the principle investors and gaining their approval for his new objective, Goodman successfully acquired a smaller competing company in France and a fast-growing company in Japan that was successfully establishing market share throughout the Far East. With the completion of both acquisitions near the end of 2002, PFM Devices' global market share jumped from 17 per cent to 33 per cent. Consolidated revenues in 2003 were more than $204 million. Goodman's plan was on target and created the momentum he needed for the company to continue to increase market share, revenues and global presence long after his anticipated retirement.

On January 1, 2004, Gary Lunde assumed the CEO position with full approval of the investment partners. Having been with the company as vice-president of marketing from the beginning, Lunde accepted the challenge to lead the company to continued prosperity and growth. With the acquisitions completed in growth-potential markets, he quickly created three divisions based on geographic locations, cultural variances and the different distribution models used by each location. Lunde's direction after creating the three divisions was to let each division operate totally autonomously for supporting business processes, such as corporate finance, human resources (HR) and information technology (IT) operations. Lunde concentrated his efforts on consolidating sales, marketing and product manufacturing.
