Part 1: Play

Purpose: Play! See how everything works before we try to find any relationships.

Procedure:

1. Pump the handle once. Watch the temperature and pressure gauge. See how long it takes for the values to stabilize. Record the values in Table 1 on the next page.

2. Using the little person pushing on the wall, decrease the volume of the box in about half. Describe what happens to:

Temperature:

Pressure:

3. Using the little person pushing on the wall, make the volume as small as possible and watch for at least 60 seconds. Thoroughly describe what happens over the course of the full minute. Be sure to address the following in your answer:

- What happens to the container and the little man pushing on the container?
- What happens to temperature and pressure?
- Describe the particle speeds of both the heavy and light species.

4. Hit the "Reset" button. Give the pump a push with the heavy species. Wait for the values to stabilize and record the results in a table drawn like Table 1 below.

Are these values the exact same as the first time you did it? _____ Why or why not?

5. There is a box in the lower right corner entitled "Gas in Pump". Select the "light species". You will notice that the pump turns red. Give the pump a press. Wait for the values to stabilize and record the results in table 1 on the next page.

6. In the box entitled "Heat Control", grab the arrow and move it to add. What happens?

7. Using the "Heat Control", grab the arrow and move it to "remove." What happens?

8. Feel free to play with the simulator. Try the "Pause" and "Step" buttons at the bottom. Try sliding the top of the container. Take about 3-5 minutes to play with the different options.

Table 1: Playing with the simulation program

	After pumping the "heavy" handle once (1 st time)	After pumping the "light" handle once	After cutting the volume in about half	Reset: Constant volume 1 pump of heavy species	Added 1 pump of light species

Phet Gas Law Simulation Worksheet Answers:

A Guide to Teaching in the Active Learning Classroom Paul Baepler, J. D. Walker, D. Christopher Brooks, Kem Saichaie, Christina I. Petersen, 2023-07-03 While Active Learning Classrooms or ALCs offer rich new environments for learning they present many new challenges to faculty because among other things they eliminate the room's central focal point and disrupt the conventional seating plan to which faculty and students have become accustomed. The importance of learning how to use these classrooms well and to capitalize on their special features is paramount. The potential they represent can be realized only when they facilitate improved learning outcomes and engage students in the learning process in a manner different from traditional classrooms and lecture halls. This book provides an introduction to ALCs briefly covering their history and then synthesizing the research on these spaces to provide faculty with empirically based practical guidance on how to use these unfamiliar spaces effectively. Among the questions this book addresses are: How can instructors mitigate the apparent lack of a central focal point in the space? What types of learning activities work well in the ALCs and take advantage of the affordances of the room? How can teachers address familiar classroom management challenges in these unfamiliar spaces? If assessment and rapid feedback are critical in active learning, how do they work in a room filled with circular tables and no central focus point? How do instructors balance group learning with the needs of the larger class? How can students be held accountable when many will necessarily have their backs facing the instructor? How can instructors evaluate the effectiveness of their teaching in these spaces? This book is intended for faculty preparing to teach in or already working in this new classroom environment for administrators planning to create ALCs or experimenting with provisionally designed rooms and for faculty developers helping teachers transition to using these new spaces.
