East Asian Development Model Shipping Hua, Ruihua Hu, 2014-12-17 Given the impressive growth in East Asia after World War II initially led by Japan the region's development models have been scrutinized since the 1980s The shared Confucian cultural heritage strong government guidance and export led economies were often cited as contributors to the impressive growth However major changes have taken place in Asia on and around the turn of the century Japan experienced two decades of economic slow down while World Bank figures reveal that China is poised to become the largest economy in the world in 2014 overtaking the United States Bearing this in mind is it even possible to formulate an East Asian development model in the context of a shifting twenty first century And if so what is it This book addresses this issue by looking at the economic political and cultural perspectives of China Japan and South Korea focusing on dynamism and potential consensus regarding an East Asian development model The chapters offer a historical background to the East Asian development model as well as in depth case studies of each of the countries concerned to show that whilst the East Asian development model does have distinct characteristics as compared with other areas and other countries may draw some insights from the East Asian experience it is not a panacea that fits all circumstances and fits all times This book will be welcomed by students and scholars of Asian economics Asian politics international political economy and development studies Federal Register, 2014
