Kerr-Koch, 2013-04-11 Romancing Fascism argues that intellectual responsibility can only be safeguarded if criticism is mobilised both as a poetic and as a critically enlightened endeavour. In this analysis of allegory as a function of modernity, what is made clear is the difficulty, if not impossibility, of definitively determining the genealogical antecedents of intellectual trends, particularly those considered pernicious to clear thinking. Thus, Kerr-Koch takes a wide-ranging approach to the analysis of allegory as it is treated by three controversial writers whose works flank the 19th and 20th centuries: the middle and late periods of what we call modernity: Walter Benjamin, Paul de Man, and Percy Bysshe Shelley. These three writers have been chosen because they have been at some point recuperated for a theory of postmodernism, a term that for some theorists represents liberal free play and for others represents a lack of rigour and a pernicious corruption of thought. Evidence of

Conflict and Colonialism in 21st Century Romantic Historical Fiction Hsu-Ming Teo, Paloma Fresno-Calleja, 2024-06-13 This book explores how postmillennial Anglophone women writers use romantic narrativisations of history to explore, revise, repurpose, and challenge the past in their novels, exposing the extent to which past societies were damaging to women by instead imagining alternative histories The novelists discussed employ the generic conventions of romance to narrate their understanding of historical and contemporary injustice and to reflect upon women's achievements and the price they paid for autonomy and a life of public purpose The volume seeks firstly to discuss the work of revision or reparation being performed by romantic historical fiction and secondly to analyse how the past is being repurposed for use in the present It contends that the discourses and genre of romance work to provide a reparative reading of the past but there are limitations and entrenched problems in such readings
