

MACBETH: ACT FIVE SCENE VIII

Defiant:

- If Macbeth gains some small measure of redemption it's in his resilience and defiance he displays in the face of defeat. Macbeth does not intend to surrender or give in by committing suicide even though capture seems imminent.
- Macbeth's reluctance to fight Macduff shows an unusual stab of conscience. Macbeth declares that he has already been responsible for the deaths of so many members of Macduff's family , he can't bear to kill anymore.
- Here then, for a brief moment, Macbeth displays emotions like remorse, guilt and regret that he's been lacking since Act 3. For a moment he resembles the human being he once was rather than the tyrannical monster he's become.

Dark and violent Macbeth is also the most theatrically spectacular of Shakespeare's tragedies. Indeed for 250 years until early this century it was performed with grand operatic additions set to baroque music. In his introduction Nicholas Brooke relates the play's changing fortunes to changes within society and the theatre and investigates the sources of its enduring appeal. He examines its many layers of illusion and interprets its linguistic turns and echoes arguing that the earliest surviving text is an adaptation perhaps carried out by Shakespeare himself in collaboration with Thomas Middleton. This fully annotated edition reconsiders textual and staging problems, appraises past and present critical views and represents a major contribution to our understanding of Macbeth.

ABOUT THE SERIES For over 100 years Oxford World's Classics has made available the widest range of literature from around the globe. Each affordable volume reflects Oxford's commitment to scholarship, providing the most accurate text plus a wealth of other valuable features including expert introductions by leading authorities, helpful notes to clarify the text, up-to-date bibliographies for further study and much more.

Excerpt from Macbeth A Tragedy. The decorations for the Coburn Players Macbeth Book aim to illustrate the mental tones and colors that make up the play when regarded as a design. The cover illustrating the line "Is this a dagger which I see before me" is more self-explanatory than the border designs whose subject matter may be found in the lines of the Witches in act IV scene I. Brindled cat, hedge pig, harpie and poisoned entrails will be found in the upper right and left hand corners of the left and right hand pages. Excepting these four which are introductory, the twenty-four ingredients which the Witches put into the cauldron are represented in the order of the text, beginning with fillet of a fenny snake and reading to the right and down the right hand side of the left hand page, thence up the left hand side to the right hand page and over to gibbet. Five panels on the extreme left are representative of Macbeth the soldier, while five on the extreme right refer to Macbeth as King. In the first of these panels on the left is the owl of wisdom, balanced on the right side by the more sinister bat. The helmet and mail is balanced by the crown and ermine, the sword and belt by the sceptre and orb, the victory palm by the double throne, the battle victims by Birnam wood. Two large panels at the bottom on the left show the blasted heath, on the right the corresponding panels represent the royal castle and army. In the lower left hand corner of the left hand page is a Shakespeare monogram, opposite is the initial letter of Macbeth. The scene on the title page showing Macbeth at the witches' cave and that of Lady Macbeth in Act V Scene I were selected to be expressed in design rather than in photographs on account of their deeper significance in the structure of the play.
