

A journey by train is among the most enjoyable journeys. I travel long distance quite often and have travelled via buses, trains as well as aeroplanes. While each of these journeys has its set of benefits, I personally love train journeys.

A journey by train is the best if you have enough time and have to travel long distance. This is the only means of transport that allows you to sleep comfortably during the journey. I prefer travelling at night. I can comfortably sleep in the train during my journey and wake up fresh and head to work during my official trips. One of my most memorable journeys by train was when I travelled from Delhi to Lucknow last year. I went to visit my relatives in Lucknow. During this train journey, I met a group of college students. The group was lively, cheerful and extremely friendly.

Writing the South through the Self John C. Inscoe, 2011-05-01 Drawing on two decades of teaching a college level course on southern history as viewed through autobiography and memoir John C Inscoe has crafted a series of essays exploring the southern experience as reflected in the life stories of those who lived it Constantly attuned to the pedagogical value of these narratives Inscoe argues that they offer exceptional means of teaching young people because the authors focus so fully on their confrontations as children adolescents and young adults with aspects of southern life that they found to be troublesome perplexing or challenging Maya Angelou Rick Bragg Jimmy Carter Bessie and Sadie Delany Willie Morris Pauli Murray Lillian Smith and Thomas Wolfe are among the more prominent of the many writers both famous and obscure that Inscoe draws on to construct a composite portrait of the South at its most complex and diverse The power of place struggles with racial ethnic and class identities the strength and strains of family educational opportunities both embraced and thwarted all of these are themes that infuse the works in this most intimate and humanistic of historical genres Full of powerful and poignant stories anecdotes and testimonials Writing the South through the Self explores the emotional and psychological dimensions of what it has meant to be southern and offers us new ways of understanding the forces that have shaped southern identity in such multifaceted ways

Locomotion in Literature Martin Zerlang, 2025-07-01 The invention of the locomotive changed landscapes cityscapes social relations sensibilities prophesied by Hans Christian Andersen it also made huge impact on literature on genres themes style This book is about this commotion this literary locomotion as it has been represented in Danish literature The book explores the movements between text and context and the interplay between literature and social history Through the prism of the railway the book provides an overview of Danish literary history from writers such as S ren Kierkegaard Georg Brandes Henrik Pontoppidan Johannes V Jensen Tove Ditlevsen Peter H eg The locomotive of history is a well known metaphor but a historical reading of these writers also show the impact of history on this metaphor from something extraordinary to something more ordinary Hans Christian Andersen wrote about meeting God face to face on the railway The experience of the modern commuter is closer to what Georges Perec calls the infraordinary As reflected in the work of Peter H eg however the railway also figures in the intense contemporary debates on decolonizing The book draws on theoretical insights expressed in concepts such as chronotope character and literary speed This book will be of interest to students and scholars in literature studies history transport and mobility studies human geography and urban studies

Summary of The Art of Travel by Alain de Botton QuickRead, Lea Schullery, Discover the art of travel and learn how to appreciate and make the most of your next trip Many times we find ourselves overly stressed about work relationships and life During these times we fantasize about being somewhere else and just escaping the daily grind We set the screensavers of our computer screens to tropical destinations and imagine lying in the sand with a drink in our hands If only we were somewhere else our problems would no longer exist right Finally we book the trip and excitement ensues However we soon learn the anticipation was much more exciting than the trip itself as we encounter traveling woes like long lines crowded places intense heat and humidity and mosquitos Alain de Botton however wants to teach you how to travel better Do you want more free books like this Download our app for free at <https://www.QuickRead.com> App and get access to hundreds of

Writing the Stage Coach Nation Ruth Livesey, 2016-09-08 Why is it that so many of the best loved novels of the Victorian era take place not in the steam powered railway present in which they were published but in the very recent past Most works by Dickens Bront Eliot and Hardy set action neither in the present nor in a definitively historical epoch but rather in a just past of collective memory a vanishing but still tangible world moving by stage and mail coach It is easy to overlook the fact that Jane Eyre Bleak House and Middlemarch for example are in this sense historical novels recreating places and times that are just slipping from the horizon of here and now Ruth Livesey brings to the surface the historical consciousness of such novels of the just past and explores how they convey an idea of a national belonging that can be experienced through a sense of local place The journey by public coach had long been an analogy for the form of the novel as it took shape in the eighteenth century smooth engineered roads and the rapid circulation of print was one means by which Britain was reimagined as a modern peaceable and communicative nation in the aftermath of the Napoleonic wars But by the later 1840s the end of the stage coach was assured and that made it a highly charged figure of a lost national modernity In its halts relays stops at inns and crossing points the stage and mail coach system offered a different experience of mobility and being in place passages of flight and anchoring points from the vectors of the railway that radiated out from industrial and urban centres This book opens by examining the writing of the stage coach nation in Walter Scott's fiction and in the work of the radical journalists William Hazlitt and William Cobbett Livesey suggests that in turning to the just past of the stage coach imaginary later novels by Dickens Bront and Eliot reach out to the possibility of a nation knitted together by the affect of strongly felt local belonging This vision is of a communicative nation at its liveliest when the smooth passage of characters and words are interrupted and overset delivering readers and protagonists to local places thick with the presence of history writ small
