Proceedings of the Fourth Conference on Fish Telemetry in Europe Deep Learning for Marine Science Haiyong Zheng, Mark C. Benfield, Hongsheng Bi, Xuemin Cheng, 2024-05-15 Deep learning DL mainly composed of deep and complex neural networks such as recurrent network and convolutional network is an emerging research branch in the field of artificial intelligence and machine learning DL revolution has a far reaching impact on all scientific disciplines and every corner of our lives With continuing technological advances marine science is entering into the big data era with the exponential growth of information DL is an effective means of harnessing the power of big data Combined with unprecedented data from cameras acoustic recorders satellite remote sensing and large model outputs DL enables scientists to solve complex problems in biology ecosystems climate energy as well as physical and chemical interactions Although DL has made great strides it is still only beginning to emerge in many fields of marine science especially towards representative applications and best practices for the automatic analysis of marine organisms and marine environments DL in nowadays marine science mainly leverages cutting edge techniques of deep neural networks and massive data which collected by in situ optical or acoustic imaging sensors for underwater applications such as plankton classification and coral reef detection This research topic aims to expand the applications of marine science to cover all aspects of detection classification segmentation localization and density estimation of marine objects organisms and phenomena Information and communication technologies for small-scale fisheries (ICT4SSF) - A handbook for fisheries stakeholders Tilley, A. and Roscher, M. (Ed.), The aim of this report is to present evidence towards how Information and Communication Technologies for Small scale Fisheries ICT4SSF might enable and support the implementation of the FAO s Voluntary Guidelines for Securing Sustainable Small Scale Fisheries in the Context of Food Security and Poverty Eradication SSF Guidelines We present case studies of ICT4SSF initiatives in different use areas to identify key themes and reflect on successes and failures There are very few baselines against which to compare fisher wellbeing and access before and after ICT initiatives and this gap is an important finding in this report Thus far success has only been assessed qualitatively and relatively in terms of uptake sustainability and local legitimacy Still some ICT4SSF initiatives presented in this document are closely aligned with the Principles for Digital Development and the objectives of the SSF Guidelines These initiatives highlighted that when ICTs are locally led or developed or co designed with end users and marginalised groups or strengthened already existing networks and technologies the potential for positive impact is much higher However there is much less evidence of proactive confrontation of inequality through data ownership Further there are very few examples of developing mechanisms for fishers and fish workers to hold access or own their data or legal mechanisms to recognise their ownership or protect them against misuse or manipulation World Fishing , 1993
