Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists ,1961-05 The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists is the premier public resource on scientific and technological developments that impact global security Founded by Manhattan Project Scientists the Bulletin s iconic Doomsday Clock stimulates solutions for a safer world Empire and Popular Culture John Griffiths,2022-07-30 From 1830 if not before the Empire began to permeate the domestic culture of Empire nations in many ways From consumables to the excitement of colonial wars celebrations relating to events in the history of Empire and the construction of Empire Day in the early Edwardian period most citizens were encouraged to think of themselves not only as citizens of a nation but of an Empire Much of the popular culture of the period presented Empire as a force for civilisation but it was often far from the truth and rather Empire was a repressive mechanism designed ultimately to benefit white settlers and the metropolitan economy This four volume collection on Empire and Popular Culture contains a wide array of primary sources complimented by editorial narratives which help the reader to understand the significance of the documents contained therein It is informed by the recent advocacy of a four nation approach to Empire containing documents which view Empire from the perspective of England Scotland Ireland and Wales and will also contain material produced for Empire audiences as well as indigenous perspectives The sources reveal both the celebratory and the notorious sides of Empire The Material of World History Tina Mai Chen,David S. Churchill,2015-03-27 This volume considers the confluence of World History and historical materialism with the following guiding question in mind given developments in the field of historical materialism concerned with the intersection of race gender labour and class why is it that within the field of World History historical materialism has been marginalized precisely as World History orients toward transnational socio cultural phenomenon micro studies or global histories of networks Answering this question requires thinking in an inter related manner about both the development of World History as a discipline and the place of economic determinism in historical materialism This book takes the position that historical materialism as applied to the field of World History needs to be more open to the methodological diversity of the materialist tradition and to refuse narrowly deterministic frameworks that have led to marginalization of materialist cultural analysis in studies of global capitalism At the same time World History needs to be more self critical of the methodological diversity it has welcomed through a largely inclusionary framework that allows the material to be considered separately from cultural social and intellectual dimensions of global processes Play Among Books Miro Roman,Alice_ch3n81,2021-12-06 How does coding change the way we think about architecture This question opens up an important research perspective In this book Miro Roman and his AI Alice_ch3n81 develop a playful scenario in which they propose coding as the new literacy of information They convey knowledge in the form of a project model that links the fields of architecture and information through two interwoven narrative strands in an infinite flow of real books Focusing on the intersection of information technology and architectural formulation the authors create an evolving intellectual reflection on digital architecture and computer science The Le Corbusier Galaxy Martina Hrabová, 2025-03-31 Drawing on the author's discovery of an unknown long forgotten collection of photographs in an Indian ashram this book offers an exciting new view of the international community of young architects who served as Le Corbusier's assistants in the inter war years A collection of some 500 snapshots assembled by the Czech architect František Sammer between 1931 and 1939 had been stored unnoticed for more than 70 years in an unlikely location the Sri Aurobindo Ashram in Pondicherry India Sammer was one of Le Corbusier's closest assistants from the early 1930s Later Sammer worked in the Soviet Union Japan and India During and after his time in Paris he personally took or collected these photographs which he then deposited at the ashram when he left to fight in World War II The images offer a remarkable view of the international community of people who worked in Le Corbusier's atelier in the 1930s Among those featured in the photographs are Charlotte Perriand Pierre Jeanneret Jane West the first American woman to work for Le Corbusier Gordon Stephenson Antonin Raymond Junzo Sakakura and Josep Lluís Sert Given the travels and international background of these individuals the photographs are from different countries around the world including the USSR England France Czech Republic Greece USA Tennessee Montana California and New Mexico Japan and India The Le Corbusier Galaxy successfully brings together serious archival research with a fascinating narrative and it captures the human dimension of modern architecture which is all too often neglected in today's accounts The Evolution of Knowledge Jürgen Renn, 2022-05-03 A fundamentally new approach to the history of science and technology This book presents a new way of thinking about the history of science and technology one that offers a grand narrative of human history in which knowledge serves as a critical factor of cultural evolution Jürgen Renn examines the role of knowledge in global transformations going back to the dawn of civilization while providing vital perspectives on the complex challenges confronting us today in the Anthropocene this new geological epoch shaped by humankind Renn reframes the history of science and technology within a much broader history of knowledge analyzing key episodes such as the evolution of writing the emergence of science in the ancient world the Scientific Revolution of early modernity the globalization of knowledge industrialization and the profound transformations wrought by modern science He investigates the evolution of knowledge using an array of disciplines and methods from cognitive science and experimental psychology to earth science and evolutionary biology The result is an entirely new framework for understanding structural changes in systems of knowledge and a bold new approach to the history and philosophy of science Written by one of today's preeminent historians of science The Evolution of Knowledge features discussions of historiographical themes a glossary of key terms and practical insights on global issues ranging from climate change to digital capitalism This incisive book also serves as an invaluable introduction to the history of knowledge Kenya's Running Women Michelle M Sikes, 2023-12-01 Since Pauline Konga's breakthrough performance at the 1996 summer Olympics in Atlanta the world has become accustomed to seeing Kenyan women medal at major championships sweep marathons and set world records Yet little is known about the pioneer generation of women who paved the way for Kenya's reputation as an international powerhouse in women's track and field. In Kenya's Running Women: A History, historian and former professional runner Michelle M. Sikes details the triumphs and many challenges these women faced from the advent of Kenya's athletics program in the colonial era through the professionalization of running in the 1980s and 1990s. Sikes reveals how over time running became a vehicle for Kenyan women to expand the boundaries of acceptable female behavior. Kenya's Running Women demonstrates the necessity of including women in histories of African sport and of incorporating sport into studies of African gender and nation building.

States, Civilisations and the Reset of World Order Richard Higgott, 2021-09-16 This book evaluates the current state of world disorder at a time of growing populism, nationalism, and pandemic panic. It distills the implications of the civilisational state for world order. The retreat of US leadership is mirrored by the decline of both the material and normative liberal multilateral infrastructure it supported. Meanwhile, the rise of China as a challenger is accompanied in political, economic, and cultural terms by other emerging powers no longer bound to the norms of 20th-century world affairs, notably Turkey, India, China, and Russia. By emphasising a cultural lens of analysis alongside robust political and economic analysis, the author offers a prescriptive agenda for the coming post-pandemic age that recognises the changing powers of civilisational state and hybrid non-state actors. Without overestimating their probabilities, he outlines prospects and preconditions for effective inter-civilisational dialogue and proposes a series of minimal conditions for a multilateral reset. This book will appeal to public and private decision-makers, the media, the educated lay public, and civil society actors interested in the rise of civilisational politics and its possible consequences for world affairs. It will be of particular interest to students and researchers in the fields of politics, international relations, international political economy, geopolitics, strategic studies, foreign policy, and social psychology.

Contemporary Irish Poetry and the Climate Crisis Andrew J. Auge, Eugene O'Brien, 2021-11-29 Contemporary Irish Poetry and the Climate Crisis addresses what is arguably the most crucial issue of human history through the lens of late twentieth and early twenty-first century Irish poetry. The poets that it surveys range from familiar presences in the contemporary Irish literary canon, Seamus Heaney, Derek Mahon, Paula Meehan, Moya Cannon, to lesser-known figures such as the experimental poet Maurice Scully, contemporary poets Stephen Sexton and Sean Hewitt, and the Irish language poets Simon Faoláin and Máire Dinny Wren. Adopting a variety of ecotheoretical approaches, the essays gathered here address several interrelated themes crucial to the climate crisis: the way in which the scalar scope of climate change interweaves local and global, distant past and imminent future, nature and culture; the critical importance of acknowledging the complex kinship of the human and nonhuman; and the necessity of warning against the devastating environmental losses to come while mourning those that already occurred. Ultimately, by envisioning new ways of existing on an earth that humans no longer dominate, this book engages in what the philosopher Jonathan Lear refers to as a process of radical anticipation.

The Semiconductor Business Franco Malerba, 1985 Bowker's Complete Video Directory, 2000 Bloomsbury Handbook of Religious Ecstasy Alison Marshall, Rubina Ramji, Michael Wilkinson, 2025-03-20 Why do people seek a connection to something beyond the social dimensions of the world Ecstatic experiences are often labelled religious spiritual mystical or even sacred However ecstasy is not just extraordinary for many people throughout the world it is an ordinary part of daily life The Handbook highlights the diverse individuals who have experienced ecstasy in the past and present from ordinary people to mystics pastors healers spirit mediums and urban neo therapeutic shamans Chapters show that ecstasy may be experienced during trance possession prayer and even through the use of drugs such as

In today's world we can point to many international disputes and interstate conflicts fueled by past events Historical resentments or memories of past suffering or fame are often used to justify political economic and even territorial demands Interstate disputes and historical conflicts should be understood as evidence of political and social tensions related to active serious differences in the assessment of the common past The book explains the role of such conflicts in international relations and suggests ways of classifying them It presents examples of the internationally relevant instrumentalisation of history from different regions of the world and outlines ways of overcoming them Architectural Humanities in

Progress Bagoes Wiryomartono, 2022-02-02 This monograph brings three branches of philosophy together epistemology ethics and aesthetics It assesses the built environment as a case study from a phenomenological perspective Under the notion of phenomenology this study understands the built environment as the hermeneutical phenomenon of being in the life world that is experienced by people within the socio cultural and historical context of habitation Hermeneutically the built environment as a phenomenon is contextually interwoven with other phenomena within the socio cultural historical and environmental network Phenomenologically speaking the task of the study is to excavate listen to unfold divulge and reconstruct the socio culturally environmentally and historically constructed relationship between people and their built environment that build develop and elaborate the system of knowledge ethics and aesthetics By and large its nature and findings are theoretical and interdisciplinary so it will be of interest not only for philosophers but also to scholars studying urban development and anthropology Critical Perspectives on Diversity in Organizations Thomas Calvard, 2020-12-29

Decades of investigations into diversity in the workplace have created mixed answers about what kinds of effects it has on employees and teams and whether or not it can be managed effectively to generate positive outcomes for organizations In contrast to mainstream work from management and psychology critical views on workplace diversity have emerged that seek to grasp more fully the messy social and political realities of workplace diversity as they operate in context Critical Perspectives on Diversity in Organizations therefore seeks to review integrate and build upon emerging critical perspectives on workplace diversity to help give a fuller understanding of how employee differences affect workplace interactions relationships employment inequality culture and society Critical perspectives help to fill in and openly recognize many of the more far reaching issues that pure management and psychology approaches can leave out issues of power inequality politics history culture and lived experiences If organizations do not try to take these issues into account and critically reflect on them then diversity management is likely to remain a relatively blunt instrument or worse a hollow piece of rhetoric This book will be of interest to international graduate students and researchers working on topics associated with equality diversity and inclusion in organizations as well as various organizational practitioners and activists engaged with these issues
