

Social Cognitive Theory

Beverly P. Morris

In this essay I will discuss what I have learned about social cognitive theory. I will give an overview of the main functional components of the theory and discuss how social cognitive theory can be applied to understanding exigent situations described in various readings on this topic.

Social cognitive theory accounts for the social origin of human thought and action. Albert Bandura, Ph.D. developed social cognitive theory (SCT) in the 1980s. In Social Foundations of Thought & Action: A Social Cognitive Theory Bandura writes that SCT expands the scope of its precursor, social learning theory, by encompassing “psychosocial phenomena that extend beyond issues of learning” (Foundations xii). He distinguishes SCT from social learning theory by explaining the two-part meaning of the new label. “The social portion of the terminology acknowledges the social origins of much human thought and action; the cognitive portion recognizes the influential causal contribution of thought processes to human motivation, affect, and action. The relabeling carries no claim of theoretical parentage” (Foundations xii).

From the SCT perspective, human functioning is influenced by the reciprocal interaction of various behavioral determinants, cognitive and other personal factors, and environmental events (Foundations 18). Humans exercise certain capabilities within this reciprocal framework to function successfully. The capabilities are symbolizing, forethought, vicarious, self-regulatory, self-reflective, and inherent.

- Symbolizing capability—the human capacity for symbolizing affords freedom from the onerous and sometimes dangerous trial-and-error process of learning from experience. Symbolizing allows abstract thought through which the individual can conceptualize possible experience and test it out with rational thought.
- Forethought capability—Most human behavior is purposive and therefore “regulated by forethought” (Foundations 19). Forethought can entail weighing probable consequences of actions, establishing goals, and planning courses of action (Foundations 19). Symbolizing is a tool for carrying out forethought. It enables the individual to conceptualize a behavior and its outcome and create motivation or inhibition to guide the selection of a course of action.
- Vicarious capability—A person can learn a behavior by observing the actions of others and the consequences of those actions. The human capacity for learning vicariously also precludes the need for the trial-and-error, learning-by-action approach to achieving behavior. Humans learn many important activities by modeling observed behavior—language, for example, or driving a car. The human capability for vicarious experience is fed by burgeoning mass communications outlets that provide a rich symbolic environment that expands modeling opportunities.
