Sociologie des professions - 3e éd. Claude Dubar, Pierre Tripier, 2011-05-04 Cet ouvrage retrace les grands modèles de professions qui se sont succédés en Occident et expose les principales théories sociologiques des professions qui continuent à affronter et parfois se combiner dans les travaux récents. Au sein d'un modèle spécifique de régulation par l'état des groupes professionnels, il rend compte de nombreuses recherches empiriques menées dans la France des années 1960-2010. Les évolutions récentes de ces groupes, changements démographiques, transformation du rôle de l'état, mondialisation et internationalisation sont présentés autour de cas empiriques, travers les modèles théoriques et recherches. L'ouvrage tente de clarifier le vocabulaire qu'utilisent les sociologues pour décrire le travail professionnel, analyser la dynamique des groupes professionnels et des marchés du travail, interpréter l'évolution des systèmes et des identités professionnelles. Cette troisième édition revue et augmentée prend acte des nombreux travaux suscités en France par cette discipline depuis une décennie et fait le point sur les nouvelles avancées au niveau international. Bringing Bourdieu's Theory of Fields to Critical Policy Analysis Vincent Dubois, 2024-01-18 Laying down the foundations of a critical sociological approach to the interdisciplinary domain of public policy, this insightful book presents the first systematic reflection on the use of Bourdieu's theory of social fields to analyse policy processes. Engaging with theoretical dimensions, it provides innovative methodological tools both quantitative and qualitative in nature. Bringing together an array of eminent contributors and case studies from across the globe, it presents theoretical and methodological insights as well as empirical information on national cases and policy sectors.

The Engineering-Business Nexus Steen Hyldgaard Christensen, Bernard Delahousse, Christelle Didier, Martin Meganck, Mike Murphy, 2018-11-14 Fascinating and compelling in equal measure, this volume presents a critical examination of the multilayered relationships between engineering and business. In so doing, the study also stimulates ethical reflection on how these relationships either enhance or inhibit strategies to address vital issues of our time. In the context of geopolitical economic and environmental tendencies the authors explore the world that we should want to create and the role of the engineer and the business manager in this endeavor Throughout this volume the authors identify periods of alignment and periods of tension between engineering and business They look at focal points of the engineering business nexus related to the development of capitalism The book explores past and present movements to reshape reform or reject this nexus The volume is informed by questions of importance for industry as well as for higher education These are What kinds of conflict arise for engineers in their attempts to straddle both professional and organizational commitments How should professionals be managed to avoid a clash of managerial and professional cultures How do engineers create value in firms and corporations What kinds of tension exist between higher education and industry What challenges does the neoliberal entrepreneurial university pose for management faculty students society and industry Should engineering graduates be ready for work and can they possibly be What kinds of business issues are reflected in engineering education curricula and for what purpose Is there a limit to the degree of business hybridization in engineering degree programs and if so what would be the criterion for its definition Is there a place in engineering education curricula for reflective critique of assumptions related to business and economic thinking One ideal of management and control comes to the fore as the Anthropocene the world transformed into an engineered artefact which includes human existence The volume raises the question as to how engineering and business together should be considered given the fact that the current engineering business nexus remains embedded within an economic model of continual growth By addressing macro level issues such as energy policy sustainable development globalization and social justice this study will both help create awareness and stimulate development of self knowledge among practitioners educators and students thereby ultimately addressing the need for better informed citizens to safeguard planet Earth as a human life supporting system

Conflicts of Interest and the Future of Medicine Marc A. Rodwin, 2011-02-16 As most Americans know conflicts of interest riddle the US health care system They result from physicians practicing medicine as entrepreneurs from physicians ties to pharma and from investor owned firms and insurers influence over physicians medical choices These conflicts raise questions about physicians loyalty to their patients and their professional and economic independence The consequences of such conflicts of interest are often devastating for the patients and society stuck in the middle In Conflicts of Interest and the Future of Medicine Marc Rodwin examines the development of these conflicts in the US France and Japan He shows that national differences in the organization of medical practice and the interplay of organized medicine the market and the state give rise to variations in the type and prevalence of such conflicts He then analyzes the strategies that each nation employs to cope with them Unfortunately many proposals to address physicians conflicts of interest do not offer solutions that stick But drawing on the experiences of these three nations Rodwin demonstrates that we can mitigate these problems with carefully planned reform and regulation He examines a range of measures that can be taken in the private and public sector to preserve medical professionalism and concludes that there just might be more than one prescription to this seemingly incurable malady un point de vue clair sur le sujet The Interest in Disinterestedness Pierre Bourdieu, 2024-07-04 A key feature of those who work for the state in the legal system and in public services is that they claim to be putting their own personal interests aside and working in a disinterested fashion for the public good But is disinterested behaviour possible Can law be treated as a set of universal rules that are independent of particular interests or is this mere ideology Is the state bureaucracy a universal class as Hegel thought or a structure that serves the interests of the dominant class as Marx claimed In his lecture courses at the Collège de France in 1987-88 and 1988-89 Pierre Bourdieu addressed these questions by examining the formation of the legal and bureaucratic fields characteristic of the modern state uncovering the historical and social conditions that enable a social group to form and find its own interests in the very fact of serving interests that go beyond it For a disinterested universe to emerge it needs both the invention of a public service or a spirit of service to the public cause and the creation of a social universe in which individuals can pursue a career devoted to public service and be rewarded for it In other words it requires a process of specialization whereby autonomous specific fields become established in the social cosmos within which a special kind of game that follows the rules of disinterest can be played out By reconstructing the conditions under which an interest in disinterestedness emerged Bourdieu sheds new light on the formation of the modern state and legal system and provides a fresh perspective on the many professions in modern societies that are oriented towards the service of the common good
