

ORIENTATION SPEECH

September 2015

Ladies and gentlemen, it is my great pleasure to welcome you to the University of Limerick this morning. I wish to congratulate each of you, first on having secured your university place and second, for having the good sense to choose to study in the University of Limerick. The University of Limerick puts the student at the centre of everything it does; your experience here at UL and your success is important to each and every member of staff who works here.

Your arrival at university marks a new chapter in the story of your life. But this chapter is a bit different. The preceding chapters were largely written by others – your parents, guardians, families, teachers and the like. Now you will be the principal author of the next chapter – you have the opportunity to determine the direction, the plot and the tempo of your story. This can seem as daunting as it is exciting, as challenging as it is empowering. But the great thing is that you are doing something that you have chosen to do, not something that was chosen for you by others. And while you are here at UL you will have the opportunity to learn new things, acquire new knowledge, develop new skills, and enhance your personal attributes in profound ways that will equip for life after University. At the same time you will

Welcome Home Julia Yeow, Leaving according to the familiar political narrative was a sign that someone was giving up on their country or wasn't proud of his or her identity Those who decided to emigrate were pigeonholed as dissidents This stereotype was not only inaccurate but made us one dimensional in our apparent single mindedness to leave behind a country we supposedly felt was no longer good enough Migration is a sensitive topic especially for over one million Malaysians who choose to venture abroad The act of leaving their own lives behind is fraught with challenges ranging from loneliness to the elusive search for a better quality of life But at the heart of their actions is the fact that their lives and identities are never going to be the same In veteran journalist Julia Yeow's book her departure for Australia becomes a series of lessons about the personal and political aspects of leaving Deeply personal and fiercely observant Welcome Home is a book for an age of intolerance and new boundaries

Itō Hirobumi - Japan's First Prime Minister and Father of the Meiji Constitution

Takii Kazuhiro, 2014-01-21 The brilliant and influential statesman Itō Hirobumi 1841-1909 and the first prime minister of Japan's modern state has been poorly understood This biography attempts to set the record straight about Itō's thought and vision for Japan's modernisation based on research in primary sources It outlines Itō's life the son of a poor farmer he showed exceptional talent as a boy and was sent to study in Europe and the United States He returned home convinced that Western civilisation was the only viable path for Japan Following the Meiji Restoration of 1868 Itō became a powerful intellectual and political force behind reforms of Japanese laws and institutions aimed to shape a modern government based on informed leadership and a knowledgeable populace Among his many achievements were the establishment of Japan's first constitution the Meiji Constitution of 1889 and the founding in 1900 of a new type of constitutional party the Rikken Seiyukai Friends of Constitutional Government which reformulated after 1945 became the Liberal Democratic Party that has dominated Japanese politics in the postwar period Concerning Itō's role as Japanese Resident General in Korea from 1905 the author argues that Itō's aim not understood by either the Japanese home government or Koreans themselves was not to colonize Korea He was determined to modernise Korea and consolidate further constitutional reforms in Japan This aim was not shared by others and Itō resigned in 1909 He was assassinated the same year in Manchuria by a Korean nationalist The Japanese language edition of this book is a bestseller in Japan and it received the Suntory Prize for Social Sciences and Humanities one of Japan's most prestigious publishing awards
