NOTE: To ensure proper agency compliance and compatibility between various products in your area, the operating channel and region must be set correctly.

Placement of the Router to Optimize Wireless Connectivity

The operating distance or range of your wireless connection can vary significantly based on the physical placement of the router. For best results, place your router:

- Near the center of the area in which your PCs will operate
- In an elevated location such as a high shelf
- Away from potential sources of interference, such as PCs, microwave ovens, and cordless phones
- Away from large metal surfaces

Note: Failure to follow these guidelines can result in significant performance degradation or inability to wirelessly connect to the router.

Wireless Network

Enable SSID Broadcast

If this feature is enabled, the wireless router will broadcast its name (SSID) to all wireless stations. Stations that have no SSID or a null value can then adopt the named SSID for connections to this access point.

Enable Wireless Isolation

If checked, the wireless client under this SSID can only access internal and Internet access other wireless clients even under the same SSID. External clients or the device other clients can't access the wireless network.

Name (SSID)

Enter a value that is 32 alphanumeric characters. The same name (SSID) must be assigned to all wireless devices in your network. The default SSID is WGT10846, but WGT10846 strongly recommends that you change your network's
