Design for Ecological Democracy Randolph T. Hester, Jr., 2010-09-24 Shows how to combine the forces of ecological science and participatory democracy to design urban landscapes that enable us to act as communities are resilient rather than imperiled and touch our hearts Over the last fifty years the process of community building has been lost in the process of city building City and suburban design divides us from others in our communities destroys natural habitats and fails to provide a joyful context for our lives In Design for Ecological Democracy Randolph Hester proposes a remedy for our urban anomie He outlines new principles for urban design that will allow us to forge connections with our fellow citizens and our natural environment He demonstrates these principles with abundantly illustrated examples drawn from forty years of design and planning practice showing how we can design cities that are ecologically resilient that enhance community and that give us pleasure Hester argues that it is only by combining the powerful forces of ecology and democracy that the needed revolution in design will take place Democracy bestows freedom ecology creates responsible freedom by explaining our interconnectedness with all creatures Hester s new design principles are founded on three fundamental issues that integrate democracy and ecology enabling form resilient form and impelling form Urban design must enable us to be communities rather than zoning segregated enclaves and to function as informed democracies A simple bench at a centrally located post office for example provides an opportunity for connection and shared experience Cities must be ecologically resilient rather than ecologically imperiled adaptable to the surrounding ecology rather than dependent on technological fixes Resilient form turns increased urban density for example into an advantage And cities should impel us by joy rather than compel us by fear good cities enrich us rather than limit us Design for Ecological Democracy is essential reading for designers planners environmentalists community activists and anyone else who wants to

Relic Light

Brennen Wysong, 2025-06-01 What does a woman in her seventies make of her life on the other side of blindness Relic Light is a story told by Beatrice whose reality is upended when she loses her ability to see While her mathematician husband is away at work at Columbia or visiting the Metropolitan Museum of Art she wanders through their empty house north of New York City and allows her mind to drift into unexpected and painful places There are solid guideposts for her along the way remembered paintings and novels to contemplate memories of her husband children and parents her close friendship with a neighbour but her fragmented thoughts often carry her in a dozen directions offering an intimate and original portrait of a mind in motion Blindness has isolated Beatrice removed her from what she can verify with her own eyes but it also may offer her a gateway into new possibilities a re-visioning of her world I have never read a novel that makes legible what I have always felt that the art we have consumed over the course of our lives novels films paintings theater is as important as the rituals of living Through his unforgettable protagonist a refreshingly female flaneur now out of the city and without her sight Brennen Wysong shows us in gorgeous and elegant prose that art imprints upon our lives as significantly as history It is our history Relic Light is a beautiful and unforgettable debut Jennifer Gilmore author of Golden Country and The Mothers When I turned the last page the character of Bea a profoundly cultured woman who has lost her sight stayed with me I walked with her I breathed with her And I still do Her rich inner life of books and art of memory and family is given to us And it is precious To carry off such an endeavour is a literary feat Relic Light is full of heart a book that renders a whole human being saving it from darkness cannot be anything else Catherine de Saint Phalle author of Poum and Alexandre and The Sea Us Geographer Yi Fu Tuan said that without a clear sense of space we would not have a linear sense of time Brennen Wyson's novel explores this idea re-constellating the events of a life after their order has been shaken by blindness It is a meditation on memory and forgetting on what the darkness loses but also what it gains The result is a truly compelling have read nothing quite like it Patrick Holland author of The Mary Smokes Boys and Oblivion Richard Emerson: The Hopfather Michael Donaldson, 2019-08-06 Richard Emerson is one of our pre-eminent brewers a trailblazer who is often lauded as the godfather of craft beer in New Zealand Born profoundly deaf in 1960s Dunedin Emerson triumphed against all odds to launch Emerson's Brewery in 1992 He went on to create a string of unique award-winning beers spark a cult following attract global recognition and become a millionaire all from doing something he loved For Richard it came after 20 years of unrelenting commitment to the cause of good beer They were two decades of hard graft physically and emotionally of little or no pay and of long hours during which he watched his father mentor and friend die just as the business began to stand on its own two feet This is the story of an adventurous boy who wouldn't let anything get in the way of what he wanted to do a boy who fought for his place in the world and refused to let anyone tell him no CIO Magazine ,2004-05-15 CIO magazine launched in 1987 provides business technology leaders with award-winning analysis and insight on information technology trends and a keen understanding of IT's role in achieving business goals Teardown Dave Meslin, 2019-05-14 As seen on TVO's adaptation Unrigged A handbook of democratic solutions in troubled times from the activist the media call a wizard a mastermind the ultimate ideas guy a mad scientist a startup genius Our democracy is a trainwreck Our elections feel hollow and our legislatures have become toxic Fierce partisanship centralized power distorted election results and rigged systems all contribute to our growing cynicism Voters are increasingly turning towards the angriest candidates or simply tuning out completely and staying at home But as Dave Meslin's career has shown we can fix things We can turn elite power structures upside down We can give a voice to ordinary people But it means fixing things from the bottom up and starting locally It's hard to change the world if you can't change a municipal by-law Teardown shows readers how to do both And it will show us that these two challenges are not fundamentally different From environmental activism to public space advocacy to the ongoing campaign for electoral reform Dave Meslin has been both out on the street in marches and in the back rooms drawing up policy With Teardown he reminds us that the future of our species doesn't need to look like a trainwreck That we're capable of so much more It's time to raise our expectations of the system of each other and of ourselves Only then can we imagine a new democracy unrecognizable from today's political mess This book is a recipe for change A cure for cynicism A war on apathy How Spaces Become Places John F. Forester, 2021-10-12 A diverse set of place makers describe how they transformed contested or empty spaces into vibrant and functional places Spanning four countries and ten U S locales these projects range from building affordable housing to community building in the aftermath of racial violence to the integration of the arts in community development By recounting how they built trust diagnosed local problems and convened stakeholders to invent solutions place makers offer pragmatic instructive strategies to employ in other communities
