Klas, J. Veijalainen, 2012-12-06 Transaction Management Support for Cooperative Application is a comprehensive report on a successful international project called TRANSCOOP carried out from 1994 to 1997 by a group of European scientists. But the book is also much more than that; namely an ambitious attempt to integrate Computer Supported Cooperative Work (CSCW), Workflow Management Systems (WFMS) and Transaction Processing (TP) technologies. The very term 'cooperative transactions' is in itself contradictory. Cooperation technologies such as CSCW aim at providing a framework for information exchange between cooperating human participants. In contrast, traditional transaction technologies allow concurrent users to operate on shared data while providing them with the illusion of complete isolation from each other. To overcome this contradiction, the TRANSCOOP researchers had to come up with a new and original notion of correctness of concurrent executions based on controlled exchange of information between concurrent users. Merging histories in accordance with prespecified commutativity rules among concurrent operations provides transactional guarantees to activities such as cooperative designing, which until now had to be carried out sequentially. As an interesting consequence, it also provides a basis for management of consistency between disconnected or mobile users who operate independently and yet must occasionally reconcile their work with each other.

Diversity in Deaf Education Marc Marschark, Venetta Lampropoulou, Emmanouil K. Skordilis, 2016-05-31 Deaf children are not hearing children who can't hear. Beyond any specific effects of hearing loss, as a group they are far more diverse than hearing peers. Lack of full access to language, incidental learning and social interactions, as well as the possibility of secondary disabilities, means that deaf learners face a variety of challenges in academic domains. Technological innovations such as digital hearing aids and cochlear implants have improved hearing, and the possibility of spoken language for many deaf learners. But parents, teachers, and other professionals are just now coming to recognize that there are cognitive, experiential, and social/emotional differences between deaf and hearing students likely to affect academic outcomes. Sign languages and schools and programs for deaf learners thus remain an important part of the continuum of services needed for this diverse population Understanding such diversity and determining ways in which to accommodate them must become a top priority in educating deaf learners Through the participation of an international interdisciplinary set of scholars Diversity in Deaf Education takes a broad view of learning and academic progress considering the whole child in the context of the families languages educational settings in which they are immersed In adopting this perspective the complexities and commonalities in the social emotional cognitive and linguistic mosaic of which the deaf child is a part are captured It is only through such a holistic consideration of diverse children developing within diverse settings that we can understand their academic potentials      Getting to the Core of Writing: Essential Lessons for Every Sixth Grade Student Richard Gentry,Jan McNeel,2012-10-01 Inspire students to develop as writers in the sixth grade classroom with these engaging and creative writing lessons This classroom tested resource shows positive results in students writing and simplifies the planning of writing instruction It contains detailed information on how to establish and manage daily Writer s Workshop and includes consistent structured instruction to encourage students to actively participate in the writing process Specific lessons to help students develop the traits of quality writing are also included      Universal Design for Learning in the Classroom Tracey E.
