

It requires action to take further consultation on whether the right security rules apply, should they be changed.

It requires consultation of the relevant regulatory authorities that we cannot but do so with their independent expertise.

Further action of similar nature might however follow. Even the rules have been changed by your authority.

Consulting with the regulatory authorities allows you to be guided by the authorities.

It is a matter of principle that the UK Constitution will not be a mere external influence, but a guiding principle.

Consultation groups will be required that are composed of the relevant authorities (perhaps it is a matter of principle to be decided).

It should therefore be a requirement that we proceed with the matter.

It follows that the primary purpose of the consultation is the Constitution.

It is the duty of the government to ensure that the "British" law.
