Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 10 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. The subjects were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of 30 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic exercise. The control group consisted of 10 women who did not exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR at rest decreased significantly from 72 to 68 beats per minute (p < 0.05). The HR during exercise decreased significantly from 145 to 135 beats per minute (p < 0.05). The EE at rest decreased significantly from 1,200 to 1,100 kcal per day (p < 0.05). The EE during exercise decreased significantly from 1,800 to 1,700 kcal per day (p < 0.05). The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the producer should do:
  - Turn off the lights at the end of the day.
  - Use red light for night time. Red light has the least effect on the circadian clock.
- The end of the day is important for the circadian clock. The end of the day is the time when the producer should turn off the lights. The end of the day is the time when the producer should turn off the lights. The end of the day is the time when the producer should turn off the lights.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 combinations for One Connection) will void the warranty. Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a variety of problems with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. A rise in the price of the output will cause a producer to produce more output, and a fall in the price of the output will cause a producer to produce less output.
