Vut Residence Form 2016:

The Un Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women and Its Optional Protocol Patricia Schulz,Ruth Halperin-Kaddari,Beate Rudolf,Marsha A. Freeman,2023-01-27 This volume is the fully revised and updated version of the first comprehensive commentary on the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and its Optional Protocol It reflects the developments during the decade following the publication of the first edition in 2012 which has also seen a notable rise in individual complaints more than 85 ten new General Recommendations and six new inquiry procedures as well as numerous statements partly in conjunction with other UN human rights bodies The Convention is a key international human rights instrument and the only one exclusively addressed to women It has been described as the United Nations landmark treaty in the struggle for women s rights At a time when the backlash against women s human rights and the concept of gender based discrimination is increasingly challenged by governments and powerful societal actors the Commentary is an important instrument to hold all state powers to account on their international obligations under the Convention The Commentary analyses the interpretation of the Convention through the work of its monitoring body the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women It comprises detailed analyses of the Preamble and each article of the Convention and of the Optional Protocol including a separate chapter on the cross cutting substantive issue of violence against women The sources relied on are the treaty language and the general recommendations concluding observations and case law under the Optional Protocol individual complaints and inquiries through which the Committee has interpreted and applied the Convention Each chapter is self contained but the Commentary is conceived of as an integral whole The book also includes an introduction which provides an overview of the Convention and its embedding in the international law of human rights as well as the most recent challenges to women s human rights worldwide

Gender Violence & Human Rights Aletta Biersack,Margaret Jolly,Martha Macintyre,2016-12-14 The postcolonial states of Fiji Papua New Guinea and Vanuatu operate today in a global arena in which human rights are widely accepted As ratifiers of UN treaties such as the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and the Convention on the Rights of the Child these Pacific Island countries have committed to promoting women s and girls rights including the right to a life free of violence Yet local national and regional gender values are not always consistent with the principles of gender equality and women s rights that undergird these globalising conventions This volume critically interrogates the relation between gender violence and human rights as these three countries and their communities and citizens engage with appropriate modify and at times resist human rights principles and their implications for gender violence Grounded in extensive anthropological historical and legal research the volume should prove a crucial resource for the many scholars policymakers and activists who are concerned about the urgent and ubiquitous problem of gender violence in the western Pacific This is an important and timely collection that is central to the major and contentious issues in the contemporary Pacific of gender violence and human rights. It builds upon existing literature but the contributors to this volume interrogate the connection between these two areas deeply and more critically. This book should and must reach a broad audience. Jacqui Leckie, Associate Professor Anthropology and Archaeology, University of Otago. The volume addresses the tensions between human and cultural individual and collective rights as played out in the domain of gender. Gender is a perfect lens for exploring these tensions because cultural rights are often claimed in defence of gender oppression and because women often have imposed upon them the burden of representing cultural traditions in attire, comportment, restraint or putatively cultural conservatism. And Melanesia is a perfect place to consider these gendered issues because of the long history of ethnocentric representations of the region because of the extent to which these are played out between states and local cultures and because of the efforts of the vibrant women's movements in the region to develop locally workable responses to the problems of gender violence in these communities. Christine Dureau, Senior Lecturer Anthropology, University of Auckland.

Boredom: The Elephant in the Room Doris Sommer, Robert D. Austin, Alexandra Vuyk, David M. Ndeti, Nicolas Prevelakis, Pier Luigi Sacco, Josefa Ros Velasco, 2024-07-16. When cases of domestic violence spiked during the COVID 19 lockdowns, terror spread among potential victims while governments that enforced the isolation seemed helpless to address the damages. Vulnerable partners, children and parents were hostage to possible perpetrators given the risks of retaliation at home and the danger of death by contamination in shelters. The alarm raises questions about under-examined triggers for violence against others and oneself. One common trigger is boredom. It is the elephant in the room, a known stressor in institutional settings: schools, prisons and military installations and otherwise out of focus despite the ubiquity of gender-based violence. Detecting the ravages of boredom in apparently safe domestic settings hints at a range of meanings for the word and a web of personal and collective dysfunctions including anxiety, depression, feelings of worthlessness and anomie. Conventional remedies for these challenges do not address the escalating rates of violence to oneself and to others. Their evident ineffectiveness during the crisis laid bare structural flaws in standard human development strategies which span home and school environments, the law and approaches to mental health. A major flaw has been the narrow perspectives of one or another discipline when the dangers are interrelated and demand multidisciplinary approaches. Chronic violence and alarming rates of depression before, during and after the pandemic show failures of predictable perspectives and their recommendations even in normal conditions. The question of how authorities should react to harm done begs the question of how to prevent harm from happening. Prevention rather than punishment for crimes or treatment for pathologies has become a preferred approach for both legal and clinical interventions. To stop violence before it erupts requires investigation into its causes because treating the effects of aggression, evacuating victims, punishing perpetrators, counselling patients addresses symptoms rather than diseases. Why was the lockdown a time of increased domestic violence? What accounts for recent spikes in teen suicides? What are the existing and possible tools for measuring boredom Answers from experts stay within foreseeable observations about the loss of jobs the increase of alcoholism social media addiction and psychological stress These familiar answers do not lead beyond the description of pathological patterns But different approaches may follow from attending to the under examined danger of having nothing to do
