Adolescence in the 21st Century Frances R. Spielhagen,Paul D. Schwartz,2013-12-01 What is wrong with young people today This question has captured the concerns of the older generation about the habits and attitudes of the adolescents in their midst The assumption is that there is indeed something wrong with young people Even Plato must have rolled his eyes as he relates his diatribe about the adolescents of Greece Is the current generation of adolescents less motivated or less focused than their parents How will they respond to the challenges facing them as they progress to adulthood When in fact do they become adults Although every generation draws upon their own unique and varied experiences the speed of our current societal changes has created a very different adolescent passage for contemporary youth than ever before The world as we know it has changed significantly and because of it much of today s youth is decidedly different from their parents Adolescence itself has shifted dramatically Young children are displaying adolescent behaviors well before they are ready to act on or understand their meaning and older adolescents are staying perpetual children As one writer put it the conveyer belt that transported adolescents into adulthood has broken down This book provides an interdisciplinary collection of research on the constants and challenges faced by young people today Failure to launch Social media Economic stagnation For the generation that is coming of age in a post terrorist world and in the midst of economic upheaval the challenges might seem insurmountable However in this book scholars from across the academy from sociology psychology education philosophy science and business explain how the young people today are responding to the constants of growth and change in adolescence and the unique challenges of life in the 21st century      Constructing Measures Mark Wilson, 2023-06-05 Constructing Measures introduces a way to understand the advantages and disadvantages of measurement instruments. It explains the ways to use such instruments and how to apply these methods to develop new instruments or adapt old ones based on item response modeling and construct references. Now in its second edition, this book focuses on the steps taken while constructing an instrument and breaks down the building blocks that make up an instrument: the construct map, the design plan for the items, the outcome space, and the statistical measurement model. The material covers a variety of item formats including multiple choice, open ended, and performance items, projects, portfolios, Likert and Guttman items, behavioral observations, and interview protocols. Each chapter includes an overview of the key concepts, related resources for further investigation, and exercises and activities. A variety of examples from the behavioral and social sciences and education, including achievement and performance testing, attitude measures, health measures, and general sociological scales, demonstrate the application of the material. New to this edition are additional example contexts including a cognitive achievement example, an attitude example, and a behavioral example, and new concentrations on specific measurement issues and practices such as standard setting, computer delivery, and reporting, and going beyond the Likert response format. Constructing Measures is an invaluable text for undergraduate and graduate courses on item test or instrument development, measurement item response theory, or Rasch analysis, taught in a variety of departments including education, statistics, and psychology. The book also appeals to practitioners who develop instruments, including industrial, organizational, educational, and school psychologists, health outcomes researchers, program evaluators, and sociological measurers.

Producing Success Peter Demerath, 2009-12-15 Middle and upper middle class students continue to outpace those from less privileged backgrounds. Most attempts to redress this inequality focus on the issue of access to financial resources, but as Producing Success makes clear, the problem goes beyond mere economics. In this eye-opening study, Peter Demerath examines a typical suburban American high school to explain how some students get ahead. Demerath undertook four years of research at a Midwestern high school to examine the mercilessly competitive culture that drives students to advance. Producing Success reveals the many ways the community's ideology of achievement plays out: students hone their work ethics and employ various strategies to succeed, from negotiating with teachers to cheating; parents relentlessly push their children while manipulating school policies to help them get ahead; and administrators aid high performers in myriad ways, even naming over forty students valedictorians. Yet as Demerath shows, this unswerving commitment to individual advancement takes its toll, leading to student stress and fatigue, incivility, and vandalism, and the alienation of the less successful. Insightful and candid, Producing Success is an often troubling account of the educationally and morally questionable results of the American culture of success.

101 Biggest Mistakes Nonprofits Make and How You Can Avoid Them Andrew Olsen, CFRE, 2019-03-15 Nonprofits are some of the scrappiest organizations you'll ever experience In many respects they resemble start ups Think about it Small groups generally of highly dedicated focused believers coming together to achieve something greater than they could ever achieve on their own They're often cash strapped moving faster than their infrastructures can keep up with and frequently learning and adapting as quickly as they can The majority of nonprofit staff are able to do so much good with so few resources The general public has come to expect nonprofits to behave this way But one thing I've noticed is that unlike the corporate sector there is little in the way of generally accepted best practices across the nonprofit sector This results in organizations that serially make mistakes often resulting in detrimental impacts to their staff their donors their revenue and ultimately to the achievement of their mission In 101 Biggest Mistakes Nonprofits Make and How You Can Avoid Them you'll hear directly from industry veterans who have over 300 years of combined experience inside nonprofit organizations and leading consulting firms serving nonprofits They are experts in strategic planning government relations leadership finance and administration program development marketing and philanthropy Contrary to what the title might suggest this book is NOT an admonishment of the nonprofit sector and those who make their career within it Far from it I know that one of the least funded areas in the nonprofit sector is staff training and development That is at the core of what brought me to envision this book to assemble this group of expert contributors and to bring this work to market Everyone makes mistakes whether you work in the nonprofit sector the commercial sector or anywhere in between In the corporate sector there are entire industries designed to provide coaching and teaching at all levels of an organization even customized to market niches These industries help teach leaders how to improve and do their jobs at the highest possible levels There are also plenty of works outlining best practices in strategy design staffing leadership management finance etc Roadmaps if you will to help corporate executives leaders and individual contributors avoid costly mistakes and maximize impact for their customers and businesses The same can't yet be said for the nonprofit sector In this book I've compiled the 101 biggest mistakes that cost nonprofits the most and given you expert recommendations to help you avoid making these mistakes yourself
