Compiled by A.E. Bennett ,1970      Cumulative Index to the 'Railway Junction Diagrams' ,1971      The World's First Railway System Mark Casson,2009-09-10 The British railway network was a monument to Victorian private enterprise Its masterpieces of civil engineering were emulated around the world But its performance was controversial praised for promoting a high density of lines it was also criticised for wasteful duplication of routes This is the first history of the British railway system written from a modern economic perspective It uses counterfactual analysis to construct an alternative network to represent the most efficient alternative rail network that could have been constructed given what was known at the time the first time this has been done It reveals how weaknesses in regulation and defects in government policy resulted in enormous inefficiency in the Victorian system that Britain lives with today British railway companies developed into powerful regional monopolies which then contested each other s territories When denied access to existing lines in rival territories they built duplicate lines instead Plans for an integrated national system sponsored by William Gladstone were blocked by Members of Parliament because of a perceived conflict with the local interests they represented Each town wanted more railways than its neighbours and so too many lines were built The costs of these surplus lines led ultimately to higher fares and freight charges which impaired the performance of the economy The book will be the definitive source of reference for those interested in the economic history of the British railway system It makes use of a major new historical source deposited railway plans integrates transport and local history through its regional analysis of the railway system and provides a comprehensive classified bibliography      The Railway Clearing House Philip S. Bagwell, 2022-12-15 Originally published in 1968 and using official records this book charts the history of the Railway Clearing House and shows the vital role it played in the development of British railways and the growth of the economy The Clearing House established a common classification of goods standardized signalling systems and telegraphic codes among the 120 railway companies which operated in Britain before the First World War It was the nerve centre of the railway for nearly a century and at one time more than 2 500 clerks were employed in its huge offices near Euston Station in London
