

Directions: Write on these sheets. Tables and formulas appear on a separate sheet.

Part 1: Multiple Choice. Circle the letter corresponding to the best answer.

1. The average growth of a certain variety of pine tree is 10.5 inches in three years. A biologist claims that a new variety will have a greater three-year growth. A random sample of 25 of the new variety has an average three-year growth of 11.8 inches and a standard deviation of 1.1 inches. The appropriate null and alternative hypotheses to test the biologist's claim are
- (A) $H_0: \mu = 10.5$ against $H_a: \mu = 11.8$
 - (B) $H_0: \mu = 10.5$ against $H_a: \mu > 10.5$
 - (C) $H_0: \mu = 10.5$ against $H_a: \mu < 10.5$
 - (D) $H_0: \mu = 10.5$ against $H_a: \mu \neq 10.5$
 - (E) $H_0: \mu = 10.5$ against $H_a: \mu \neq 10.5$
2. As part of a test, $H_0: \mu = 100$ against $H_a: \mu > 100$, a sample of size 100 produced a t -value for the value of the test statistic. The P -value of the test is displayed as
- (A) 0.001
 - (B) 0.005
 - (C) 0.010
 - (D) 0.020
 - (E) 0.050
3. A certain population follows Normal distribution with mean μ and standard deviation $\sigma = 12.1$. Two confidence intervals are constructed for the population mean from the hypotheses $H_0: \mu = 100$, $H_a: \mu > 100$. The observed P -value is 0.002. Which of the following is true?
- (A) At the 5% significance level, we have proved that H_0 is true.
 - (B) We have failed to reject our null hypothesis, but H_0 .
 - (C) There is some evidence against H_0 , and it really may be that sample size may give insufficient evidence.
 - (D) This should be considered a pilot study, and the data suggest that further investigation of the hypothesis will not be needed at the 5% significance level.
 - (E) None of the above.
4. The mean is 10 and $H_0: \mu = 10$ vs $H_a: \mu \neq 10$ is at $\alpha = 0.05$. At 50% confidence interval for μ , calculated from a given random sample is (9.4, 10.6). Based on this finding, we
- (A) fail to reject H_0 .
 - (B) reject H_0 .
 - (C) cannot make any decision at all because the value of the test statistic is noncalculable.
 - (D) cannot make any decision at all because the distributions of the population is unknown.
 - (E) cannot make any decision at all because (9.4, 10.6) is only a 50% confidence interval for μ .
