Base stations developed according to the 3GPP Long Term Evolution LTE standard require unprecedented processing power 3GPP LTE enables data rates beyond hundreds of Mbits s by using advanced technologies necessitating a highly complex LTE physical layer The operating power of base stations is a significant cost for operators and is currently optimized using state of the art hardware solutions such as heterogeneous distributed systems The traditional system design method of porting algorithms to heterogeneous distributed systems based on test and refine methods is a manual thus time expensive task Physical Layer Multi Core Prototyping A Dataflow Based Approach provides a clear introduction to the 3GPP LTE physical layer and to dataflow based prototyping and programming The difficulties in the process of 3GPP LTE physical layer porting are outlined with particular focus on automatic partitioning and scheduling load balancing and computation latency reduction specifically in systems based on heterogeneous multi core Digital Signal Processors Multi core prototyping methods based on algorithm dataflow modeling and architecture system level modeling are assessed with the goal of automating and optimizing algorithm porting With its analysis of physical layer processing and proposals of parallel programming methods which include automatic partitioning and scheduling Physical Layer Multi Core Prototyping A Dataflow Based Approach is a key resource for researchers and students This study of LTE algorithms which require dynamic or static assignment and dynamic or static scheduling allows readers to reassess and expand their knowledge of this vital component of LTE base station design     Measuring Cross
