Approaches to Byzantine Architecture and its Decoration Mark J. Johnson, Amy Papalexandrou, 2016-12-05 The fourteen essays in this collection demonstrate a wide variety of approaches to the study of Byzantine architecture and its decoration a reflection of both newer trends and traditional scholarship in the field The variety is also a reflection of Professor Curcic's wide interests which he shares with his students These include the analysis of recent archaeological discoveries recovery of lost monuments through archival research and onsite examination of material remains reconsidering traditional typological approaches often ignored in current scholarship fresh interpretations of architectural features and designs contextualization of monuments within the landscape tracing historiographic trends and mining neglected written sources for motives of patronage The papers also range broadly in terms of chronology and geography from the Early Christian through the post Byzantine period and from Italy to Armenia Three papers examine Early Christian monuments and of these two expand the inquiry into their architectural afterlives Others discuss later monuments in Byzantine territory and monuments in territories related to Byzantium such as Serbia Armenia and Norman Italy No Orthodox church being complete without interior decoration two papers discuss issues connected to frescoes in late medieval Balkan churches Finally one study investigates the continued influence of Byzantine palace architecture long after the fall of Constantinople Bradshaw's Railway

the many facets of social movement persuasion Persuasion is inherently practical we can study it most profitably by examining the functions of persuasive acts Even apparently irrational acts make sense to the actoreffective analysis discovers the reasoning behind the acts People create and comprehend their world through symbols and it is people who create use ignore or act on these symbolic creations Although they remain important in social movement persuasion speeches are now one of many resources for organizing and carrying out a variety of protests New technologies have transformed how social movements come into existence constitute organizations establish coalitions pressure institutions and communicate with a wide variety of audiences Social movements sometimes sell conspiracy theories to skeptical audiences justify inherently divisive tactics and use violence as a rhetorical strategy Institutions and countermovements have a variety of strategies for resistance
