the bureau was established by Congress in October 1918 as a public corporation with a fund of 5 million to facilitate trade between Russia and America for government and business leaders thought that the Russians could be helped to resolve their problems with the income from trade The bureau was also to assist in two areas essential to trade stabilizing the currency and restoring the transportation system With the signing of the peace treaty however the bureau as a wartime agency was dissolved in June 1919 and its work assigned to the State Department As one of the first American attempts at foreign aid the bureau s program was necessarily tentative but Linda Killen shows that as a specific case the bureau offers an instructive example It reveals a widespread ignorance of Russian affairs both in government and in business circles More importantly it demonstrates the fatal weakness of an idealistic policy that was blind to political realities Perhaps the bureau s most tangible accomplishment came when its 5 million were finally transferred to the Trans Siberian Railroad to purchase new equipment Yet ironically it was the hated Bolsheviks who benefitted from this aid when they seized Siberia and used the new equipment to restore the rail line to efficient operation This detailed study of the Russian Bureau sheds new light on a turbulent and tragic area of American diplomacy Unfortunately the democratic Russia that Wilson sought to help may never have existed except in his mind and never came to be Journal of the Common Council, ... Detroit (Mich.).
