The Mathematics Teacher in the Digital Era Alison Clark-Wilson, Ornella Robutti, Nathalie Sinclair, 2013-12-08 This volume

addresses the key issue of the initial education and lifelong professional learning of teachers of mathematics to enable them to realize the affordances of educational technology for mathematics. With invited contributions from leading scholars in the field, this volume contains a blend of research articles and descriptive texts. In the opening chapter, John Mason invites the reader to engage in a number of mathematics tasks that highlight important features of technology-mediated mathematical activity. This is followed by three main sections: An overview of current practices in teachers' use of digital technologies in the classroom and explorations of the possibilities for developing more effective practices drawing on a range of research perspectives including grounded theory, enactivism, and Valsiner's zone theory. A set of chapters that share many common constructs such as instrumental orchestration, instrumental distance, and double instrumental genesis and research settings that have emerged from the French research community but have also been taken up by other colleagues. Meta-level considerations of research in the domain by contrasting different approaches and proposing connecting or uniting elements.

Greening the Ivory Tower Sarah Creighton, 1998-04-27. A practical guide to how the university can serve as a model of environmental stewardship. Universities can teach and demonstrate environmental principles and stewardship by taking action to understand and reduce the environmental impacts of their own activities. Greening the Ivory Tower, a motivational and how-to guide for staff, faculty, and students, offers detailed greening strategies for those who may have little experience with institutional change or with the latest environmentally friendly technologies. The author was project manager of Tufts CLEAN, a program whose mission was to reduce Tufts University's environmental impact. After analyzing the campus's overall environmental impact each year, the main campus serves 5 million meals, makes 14 million photocopies, uses 65 tons of paper, towels, 110 million gallons of water, and 23 million kWh of electricity and generates over 2,000 tons of solid waste. The team decided to focus on food waste, transportation, energy efficiency, and procurement practices. An essential discovery was that to change practices requires the personal commitment and direct involvement of those who have the responsibility for operating the institution on a daily basis. Although the Tufts experience forms the basis for many of the proposals in the book, the story goes well beyond Tufts; the author includes examples of successful practices from many other institutions.
