

A Message For My Mother

*How can I find the words
To let you know how much I care?
To thank-you, Mom, for all you've done,
For always being there.*

*You've been "friend" as well as "Mother,"
Walking with me all through life,
Through the joy and through the laughter,
Through the heartache and the strife.*

*You're the best I could have hoped for,
And with gratitude I see...
The sweet lifetime of devotion,
You invested here in me.*

My Mother's House David Armand,2016-03-11 Set in the bucolic yet brutal South of his youth My Mother's House is a memoir by novelist David Armand It recounts the young author's early memories of being born to a schizophrenic mother then given up for adoption only to be raised in a home with an alcoholic and abusive step father In this sharply remembered portrait of the people and places that shaped him Armand paints his seemingly negative experiences with a sympathetic and understanding brush As the reader follows Armand through his childhood and later into adult life when he is reunited with his mother after she makes a failed suicide attempt a surprisingly new world of hope and possibility is rendered despite the overwhelming challenges of this reunion Armand's writing is reminiscent of Hemingway straightforward descriptions of manly action punctuated by laconic dialogue New York Journal of Books Armand writes in a comfortingly familiar literary voice that blends Ernest Hemingway's laconic but rhythmically complicated explorations of the mysteries of masculinity with William Faulkner's more fabulist Southern Gothic twang It's a heady seductively intoxicating combination Richmond Times Dispatch In My Mother's House Kim Chernin, 2019-10-15 In My Mother's House depicts a profound intergenerational struggle between a powerful politically engaged mother Rose and her spiritually inclined poet and writer daughter Kim Framing this collision are two other generations There is Rose's mother from the shtetl a broken woman regularly beaten by her husband but the source of the family's stories And Kim's daughter a second generation fully assimilated girl of eight at the time the book begins Four generations from the shtetl to an affluent intellectual household in Berkeley California the story is a historical record and reckoning between the old activist left and a beginning feminist movement The double narrative allows Kim to explore the evolving relationship between mother and daughter who through their storytelling are brought to a profound understanding and reconciliation The Turk and My Mother Mary Helen Stefaniak, 2025-04-25 Winner of the John Gardner Fiction Book Award Fans of Amy Tan and Carol Shields will revel in the themes of remembrance forgiveness family devotion and forbidden love Booklist Every family has its secrets But toward the end of his life George decides to tell his daughter the story of his mother and the Turk This initial revelation leads to a narrative tour de force that follows a family through four generations and around the world through love marriage and betrayal through illness death and war Mary Helen Stefaniak's charming and flawed characters and the warmth of her prose will stay with readers long after they close the book Reading group guide included Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. My Mother's Wars Lillian Faderman, 2015-07-14 An acclaimed writer on her mother's tumultuous life as a Jewish immigrant in 1930s New York and her life-long guilt when the Holocaust claims the family she left behind in Latvia. A story of love, war, and life as a Jewish immigrant in the squalid factories and lively dance halls of New York's Garment District in the 1930s. My Mother's Wars is the memoir Lillian Faderman's mother was never able to write. The daughter delves into her mother's past to tell the story of a Latvian girl who left her village for America with dreams of a life on the stage and encountered the realities of her new world: the battles she was forced to fight as a woman, an immigrant worker, and a Jew with family left behind in Hitler's deadly path. The story begins in 1914. Mary, the girl who will become Lillian Faderman's mother, just seventeen and swept up with vague ambitions to be a dancer, travels alone to America where her half-sister in Brooklyn takes her in. She finds a job in the garment industry and a shop friend who teaches her the thrills of dance halls and the cheap amusements open to working-class girls. This dazzling life leaves Mary distracted, and her half-sister and brother-in-law scandalized that she has become a good-time gal. They kick her out of their home, an event with consequences Mary will regret for the rest of her life. Eighteen years later, still barely scraping by as a garment worker and unmarried at thirty-five, Mary falls madly in love and has a torrid romance with a man who will never marry her but who will father Lillian Faderman before he disappears from their lives. America is in the midst of the Depression; Hitler is coming to power in Europe, and New York's garment workers are just beginning to unionize. Mary makes tentative steps to join, despite her lover's angry opposition. As National Socialism engulfs Europe, Mary realizes she must find a way to get her family out of Latvia, and she spends frenetic months chasing vague promises and false rumors of hope. Pregnant again after having submitted to two wrenching back-room abortions and still unmarried, Mary faces both single motherhood and the devastating possibility of losing her entire Eastern European family. Drawing on family stories and documents as well as her own tireless research, Lillian Faderman has reconstructed an engrossing and essential chapter in the history of women, workers, Jews, and of the Holocaust as immigrants experienced it from American shores.

The Night My Mother Met Bruce Lee Paisley Rekdal, 2007-12-18 When you come from a mixed-race background as Paisley Rekdal does, her mother is Chinese American and her father is Norwegian thorny issues of identity politics and interracial desire are never far from the surface Here in this hypnotic blend of personal essay and travelogue Rekdal journeys throughout Asia to explore her place in a world where one's appearance is the deciding factor of one's ethnicity In her soul searching voyage she teaches English in South Korea where her native colleagues call her a hermaphrodite and is dismissed by her host family in Japan as an American despite her assertion of being half Chinese A visit to Taipei with her mother who doesn't know the dialect leads to the bitter realization that they are only tourists which makes her further question her identity Written with remarkable insight and clarity Rekdal a poet whose fierce lyricism is apparent on every page demonstrates that the shifting frames of identity can be as tricky as they are exhilarating
