

Bas-Relief Paper Sculpture

Description:

This lesson introduces the concept of bas-relief sculptures. A flat, low image that will be raised off the background surface approximately 2- 3 inches.

This piece is being created at the request of Wolcott Metro Park. The work will be displayed on June 29th as part of their Detroit Institute of Arts Inside-Out walking tour. Student work will be displayed in a barn at the Wolcott farm.

Goals:

- Students will also be introduced to a new method for creating a sculpture using paper. Although people use paper as a flat surface to write on most of the time, in art the paper will be transformed into a low relief sculpture.
- Students will create the sculpture by curving or folding the paper into three dimensional forms.
- Students will learn how to add texture to enhance the forms and shapes.
- Students will learn how to create a sculpture with only one value - white paper.

Identifying Key Characteristics of Paper Sculpture

- Paper sculpture is the art of making three dimensional objects from flat sheets of paper.
- Paper sculptures are made from sheets of paper and card stock that is cut into various shapes and then glued together.
- Paper sculptures use a method called scoring to create curves and creases.
- Paper sculptures are created by layering the pieces of paper.
- Paper sculptures use small boxes or pieces of foam core board to increase the depth of the layers.

Materials:

white backboard: 9 x 12, 12 x 16 or 12 x 18

white paper

foam core board

pencil & eraser

ruler

scissors

Elmer's glue

Techniques:

The following techniques are used to create the paper sculpture:

- Scoring – once a shape is cut out of the paper, open a pair of scissors, score a line down the middle and then bend the shape on the scored line.
- Curling – the paper is rolled tight to create curled pieces.
- Embossing – pressing a tool into the paper while it is on a soft surface will create a raised design.
- Texture – can be created by scraping the surface or cutting fine slits (for fur)
- Slits – can be cut into the shape and the tabs overlapped then glued to create a round or 3-D object
- Tabs – can be cut on the edge of the shape and bent under in order to glue the object onto the board.
- Origami - the art of folding a single square sheet of paper without any cutting or gluing can be used to create parts of the paper sculpture.

Lesson:

1. Challenge will be to solve the problem of turning a flat sheet of paper into a three dimensional form. A 3-D form has height, width and depth.
2. In order to create the image students will need to score, fold, bend, and curl the paper while gluing it layers to create the low relief.
3. Subject matter: replicate a painting from a famous artist. Images will be pre-selected and each student will chose a different painting.
4. There are two ways to approach the construction of the sculpture. First draw the pieces on the paper before cutting and assembling or just start cutting.
