Hundred-Gated Thebes P.W. Pestman, Vleeming, 2020-04-28 The choachytes or morticians of the ancient Egyptian city of Thebes provided a rich documentation linking the city of the living on one side of the Nile with the city of the dead on the other The family archives of these choachytes deal to a large part with their professional role in serving the dead entrusted to their care but they are also virtually our only source of information about the city of Thebes whose physical remains were ruthlessly obliterated in the nineteenth century This material constitutes one end of a chain which links the temple statues of Amun's servants and descriptions of their houses on the one hand with their tombs and their tomb inventories on the other allowing us to identify individual choachytes from their papers The papyrological finds can thus provide an exact dating for objects that might otherwise be only dated to within several centuries while the objects themselves and the tomb architecture provide a factual dimension to historical and legal documents which might otherwise remain flat and arid It was in order to draw attention to the richness of all the constituent parts of this documentation that a number of scholars were invited to present their views on Graeco Roman Thebes at a colloquium held from 9 to 11 September 1992 in Leiden the Netherlands The survey papers and communications presented at this colloquium are published here
