

The background of the entire image is a dense, repeating pattern of black, stylized human figures. These figures are depicted in various walking poses, creating a sense of a large crowd or a parade. They are walking on a floor composed of large, light-colored squares, creating a checkered effect. On the right side of the image, there is a vertical blue band. Inside this band, the author's name is written in white, uppercase letters. The title of the work is written in large, white, uppercase letters across the center of the image, overlapping the crowd of figures.

Marching against Gender Practice J. P. Linstroth,2015-10-30 Marching against Gender Practice Political Imaginings in the Basqueland begins with the question why is it so problematic for the majority of people in the Basque town of Hondarribia to accept the broader participation of women in their annual military march known as the Alarde To explain this dispute this study examines local history as well as the history of this unique parade but most importantly considers how gender practices were and are organized The controversy to extend female involvement in the Alarde resulted in two positions between betikoak traditionalists Betiko Alardearen Aldekoak Always the Town s Alarde and local feminists emakumealdekoak or Emakumeak JuanaMugarrietakoa the Women of Mugarrietakoa WJM the former group wishing to preserve the ritual and the latter wanting to change it These are not simply dichotomous stances but represent multiple levels of local identity through differing concepts of gender history and social experience It will be shown throughout the Alarde s long history 1639 present that it represents several periods of militarism from the town s defense in 1638 against French forces Napoleonic resistance 1808 1813 to the Carlist Wars 1833 1840 and 1872 1876 The Alarde began as a religious procession and gradually incorporated more and more secular elements In essence by the end of the nineteenth century and beginning of the twentieth century the Alarde became one of many Basque celebrations Euskal jaiak tying it to Basque nationalism Marching against Gender Practice centers on gender analyses of two opposing gender worldviews between the betikoak traditionalists and WJM feminists but it aims at being applicable to gender theories in general especially how gender may be cognized and what cognitive processes and cognitive systems may be included in the cognition of gender By implication it is asserted that collective imagination is not an immutable or static concept but may represent locality regionalism and nationalism as well as imbue concepts of communality individuality gender harmony historical narration memory social organization and tradition Commemorative historical or re enactment rituals like the Alarde of Hondarribia explain the duration of local identity its transformation over time and newer expressions of identity which are continually being contested and reaffirmed through collective imagination
