Federal Register , 2013-10 Failed Promises David M. The Man Who Knew Sebastian Mallaby, 2017-12-05 Exceptional Deeply researched and elegantly written As a description of the politics and pressures under which modern independent central banking has to operate the book is incomparable Financial Times The definitive biography of the most important economic statesman of our time from the bestselling author of The Power Law and More Money Than God Sebastian Mallaby's magisterial biography of Alan Greenspan the product of over five years of research based on untrammelled access to his subject and his closest professional and personal intimates brings into vivid focus the mysterious point where the government and the economy meet To understand Greenspan's story is to see the economic and political landscape of our time and the presidency from Reagan to George W Bush in a whole new light As the most influential economic statesman of his age Greenspan spent a lifetime grappling with a momentous shift the transformation of finance from the fixed and regulated system of the post war era to the free for all of the past quarter century The story of Greenspan is also the story of the making of modern finance for good and for ill Greenspan's life is a quintessential American success story raised by a single mother in the Jewish migr community of Washington Heights he was a math prodigy who found a niche as a stats crunching consultant A master at explaining the economic weather to captains of industry he translated that skill into advising Richard Nixon in his 1968 campaign This led to a perch on the White House Council of Economic Advisers and then to a dazzling array of business and government roles from which the path to the Fed was relatively clear A fire breathing libertarian and disciple of Ayn Rand in his youth who once called the Fed's creation a historic mistake Mallaby shows how Greenspan reinvented himself as a pragmatist once in power In his analysis and in his core mission of keeping inflation in check he was a maestro indeed and hailed as such At his retirement in 2006 he was lauded as the age's necessary man the veritable God in the machine the global economy's avatar His memoirs sold for record sums to publishers around the world But then came 2008 Mallaby's story lands with both feet on the great crash which did so much to damage Alan Greenspan's reputation Mallaby argues that the conventional wisdom is off base Greenspan wasn't a naive ideologue who believed greater regulation was unnecessary He had pressed for greater regulation of some key areas of finance over the years and had gotten nowhere To argue that he didn't know the risks in irrational markets is to miss the point He knew more than almost anyone the question is why he didn't act and whether anyone else could or would have A close reading of Greenspan's life provides fascinating answers to these questions answers whose lessons we would do well to heed Because perhaps Mallaby's greatest lesson is that economic statesmanship like political statesmanship is the art of the possible The Man Who Knew is a searching reckoning with what exactly comprised the art and the possible in the career of Alan Greenspan

Poison Powder Gregory S. Wilson, 2023-04

In 1975 workers at Life Science Products a small makeshift pesticide factory in Hopewell Virginia became ill after exposure to Kepone the brand name for the pesticide chlordecone. They made the poison under contract for a much larger Hopewell company Allied Chemical. Life Science workers had been breathing in the dust for more than a year. Ingestion of the chemical made their bodies seize and shake. News of ill workers eventually led to the discovery of widespread environmental contamination of the nearby James River and the landscape of the small working class city. Not only had Life Science dumped the chemical but so had Allied when the company manufactured it in the 1960s and early 1970s. The resulting toxic impact was not only on the city of Hopewell but also on the faraway fields where Kepone was used as an insecticide. Aspects of this environmental tragedy are all too common: corporate avarice, ignorance and regulatory failure combined with race and geography to determine toxicity and shape the response. But the Kepone story also contains some surprising medical, legal and political moments amid the disaster. With Poison Powder Gregory S. Wilson explores the conditions that put the Kepone factory and the workers there in the first place and the effects of the poison on the people and natural world long after 1975. Although the manufacture and use of Kepone is now banned by the Environmental Protection Agency, organochlorines have long half-lives and these toxic compounds and their residues still remain in the environment.

Parliament. House of Commons. Education Committee,2013 The Government s plans for replacing GCSEs with new English Baccalaureate Certificates in some subjects is trying to do too much too fast Introducing several fundamental changes at the same time and to a tight timetable will jeopardise the quality of the reforms and may threaten the stability of the wider exam system GCSEs need significant improvements in order to restore public confidence in the exam system but the Government still needs to make the case that the GCSE brand is so discredited that it is beyond repair MPs are also concerned about the impact of the changes on subjects outside the English Baccalaureate where students will be taking GCSEs for some time to come according to the Government's plans The report also questions how well the Government's proposals will serve lower attaining pupils who are often the most disadvantaged There is no evidence that the proposed changes will help to tackle under achievement or narrow the attainment gap between the richest and poorest students any more effectively than GCSEs The Government is also called upon to re think its plans for a Statement of Achievement specifically for lower attaining pupils MPs agree that changes are needed to the way in which exams are run but they raise serious concerns about franchising subjects to exam boards The report is critical of the Government's decision to abolish some GCSEs before publishing the outcomes of the National Curriculum Review and its proposed changes to the school accountability system MPs also note the wide ranging stakeholder opposition to many of the Government's proposals
