Lewis Carroll once wrote a story about a king who wanted a very accurate map of his kingdom The king had a pathologically fastidious eye for detail and consequently decided that the map was to be produced at a scale of 1:1 The scribes dutifully set to and in time the map was made The map carried details of every tree every rock and every blade of grass throughout the entire land The problem occurred when they tried to use it First of all the map was extraordinarily difficult to open out and line up with the countryside Its sheer bulk meant that it took whole armies to carry it and a great host of bureaucrats and technicians to maintain the information Such was the detail of the map that as soon as the wind blew strongly whole sections needed to be redrawn What was worse was that all the farmers protested because the map completely cut out the light from the sun and all the crops died Eventually the howls of protest became so strong that the king was forced to take action He did away with the old paper copy and decided to use the kingdom itself as the map All lived happily ever after There are at least two morals to this tale First you are almost certainly doomed to failure if you do not get the representation of the problem right Chinese Journal of Acoustics, 2005
