Labs on Long Island announce a discovery that will change the course of humanity and pit science against theological beliefs that have existed since time began. The team of genetic scientists have located and defined a human gene that can accurately identify the length of a human life from their first day to when their last day will come about. Their 4 years of study of the gene offers no reasons for a person's demise except that they can predict with absolute certainty when an individual tested will meet their death. The evidence rocks the foundations of religions worldwide and shakes the faith of humankind which has believed that only God has the power to control such decisions. Nations around the globe take up the debate over who defines not the start but the end of a human life. The debate will linger for years. But the discovery also shakes the lives of four test volunteers that had agreed to be subjects and donated their DNA. For each of the 4 subjects find out that they are scheduled to die exactly one year from the date of the announcement. December 25 2013 will be the day that they die. The four total strangers to each other seemingly in perfect health and all from completely separate walks of life and circumstances know only that they share the same date of death. The wave of human emotions that accompanies their terrible news at first overwhelms them as they go from disbelief and denial to resignation and resolution. They each take a different course as they prepare themselves by looking back on their lives and numbering the days they have left. What happens to them and how the human spirit can change so suddenly becomes the focus as each person moves forward towards their final day of our most precious possession life.

Walking with Ghosts Gabriel Byrne, 2021-01-12 A masterpiece poetic moving and very funny find it on the shelf alongside other great Irish memoirs including those by Frank McCourt Nuala O Faolain and Edna O'Brien Colum McCann. As a young boy growing up in the outskirts of Dublin Gabriel Byrne sought refuge in a world of imagination among the fields and hills near his home at the edge of a rapidly encroaching city. Born to working class parents and the eldest of six children he harbored a childhood desire to become a priest. When he was eleven years old Byrne found himself crossing the Irish Sea to join a seminary in England. Four years later Byrne had been expelled and he quickly returned to his native city. There he took odd jobs as a messenger boy and factory laborer to get by. In his spare time he visited the cinema where he could be alone and yet part of a crowd. It was here that he could begin to imagine a life beyond the grey world of 1960s Ireland. In this memoir he revels in the theater and poetry of Dublin's streets populated by characters as eccentric and remarkable as any in fiction and recounts his decision to join an amateur theater group a decision that would change his life forever. Moving between sensual recollection of childhood in a now almost vanished Ireland and reflections on stardom in Hollywood and on Broadway Byrne also courageously recounts his battle with addiction and the ambivalence of fame. Byrne writes with much more depth than the typical celebrity memoirist accessing some of Heaney's earthiness and Joyce's grasp of how Catholic guilt can shape an artist a winning dry humor that reads as authentically humble. Kirkus Reviews starred review. A gripping memoir that is anything but typical Hollywood evokes a beautiful sense of nostalgia melancholy and vulnerability. Winnipeg Free Press A real writer a born storyteller. The Washington Post A dreamy book. He writes
