This article provides an overview of Enterprise Structures in Oracle Fusion Applications, mainly focused on the relationship of the Enterprise, Legal Entity and Business Unit. It also provides some examples gathered from real-life scenarios the author has encountered.

Enterprise Structure

Business' enterprise structure may differ on the basis of industry, geography or statutory requirements. The main driver of an enterprise structure would be any legal requirements and reporting it has to adhere to. Planning how the enterprise structure would be is highly critical. Below is a quick graphical example of an Enterprise named "Vision Corporation":

"Vision Corporation" operates in multiple countries such as United States, France, United Kingdom and Japan. By law, they are required to report their financial earnings in different accounting methods/conventions. Therefore, a good strategy would be to create legal entities by country:

Enterprise	Legal Entity	Accounting Convention
Vision Corporation	Vision US	US Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP)
	Vision France	International Accounting Standards (IAS)
