the crucial concept of selectivity The analysis proceeds with a detailed investigation of the theoretical issues that arise when applying the selectivity test in State aid law to three methods for the allocation of the corporate tax base between the members of multinational enterprises the arm's length principle transfer pricing safe harbours and systems of formula apportionment This research project is conducted at a theoretical level without considering national provisions or particular tax treaties The author suggests an analytical framework on the application of the selectivity test to the three allocation methods It is concluded that these methods are likely to have certain selective features with varying possibilities to be justified by the inner logic of a corporate income tax system It is also demonstrated that selectivity occurs for different reasons due to the different rationales of the three allocation methods This book is intended at contributing to the academic literature on the impact of State aid law on the principles for the taxation of the income of multinational enterprises The outcome of this research project is also relevant for lawmakers who need to reconcile the imperatives of State aid law with the design of rules that match their tax policies as well as for judges or lawyers who apply the rules on State aid to tax provisions
