

Example of Flex field in Oracle Apps

Best example of FlexFields in Oracle Apps can be Chart Of Accounts in which we define accounting flexfields structures. A chart of accounts is a listing of the names of the accounts that a company has identified and made available for recording transactions in its general ledger. Suppose a company has different departments and accounts, and want to record transactions as per this structure. So they can create their own accounting flexfields defining combination of like: Company, Department, Accounts.

In this screenshot, we can see GL Accounts screen. If you start editing any account you will be presented with "Chart of accounts" dialog, showing all the segments (like Company, Account, CostCentre etc.) and their currently assigned values.
